Crowds See Soviet Ice Breaker At Up-island Port

Ss. Krassin Fueling at Union Bay Is Object of Much Interest; Airy Staterooms For All Members of Crew; Stewardesses Provide Home Touch; Communist Party Delegation Pays Visit

Special to The Times
Courtenay, May 7.—The Russian icebreaker Krassin, democratic ship, on which the captain wears no gold braid and men and officers eat in the same dining-room, and all on board live on equal terms, is now coaling at Union Bay, and has been the object of considerable interest. There are bright, airy staterooms on the main deck. Four stewardesses, who are members of the crew, serve in the dining-room, make beds, mend clothes and generally bring a home atmosphere at sea to the Russian sailors.

Courtenay and Cumberland were busy over the week-end with Russian sailors from the Krassin. As their last stop was at Panama they were out of supplies. Their next stop will be somewhere in the Arctic, so they were stocking up with cigarettes and other luxuries. They bought everything from toothbrushes to clothing, being particularly struck by Indian sweaters in bright colors, and beaded moccasins. They could not speak English very well, but knew enough to bargain keenly with the shopkeepers.

TAKE PICTURES
All Saturday and Sunday crowds of people visited the docks of the Canadian Collieries where the Krassin is loading 2,600 tons of Vancouver Island coal. Hundreds of pictures of the ship and the men were taken. The sailors seemed surprised that they caused so much interest but good naturedly posed for photographs.

CAR PLUNGES FORTY FEET

When the touring car in which they were dining plunged over a forty foot embankment on Parkin Street, seven residents of Ladysmith Saturday evening miraculously escaped serious injury.

The car was driven by James W. Jones, and after heading over the bank it turned over several times before coming to rest, right side up, at the bottom. Its occupants were badly shaken and suffered minor bruises, but no serious injuries were reported.

Eighty Men Killed In German Mine

With No Hope of Rescue, Authorities Seal Pit in Baden in Effort to Stop Fire

Muelheim, Baden, Germany, May 7.—With eighty miners certainly dead, the Bueggenen potash mine was sealed by authorities to-day in an effort to stop the fierce fire which trapped the workers.

A short circuit caused an explosion which was followed by fire in shafts more than 2,000 feet below the surface.

As the fire continued there were repeated explosions which brought cave-ins.

Will Discuss Construction
Committee representing the City Council, the Real Estate Board of Victoria and the Chamber of Commerce will meet in the chamber on Friday at 2.15 o'clock to discuss application of anticipated Dominion government funds to a construction programme in this city.

SAYS NATIONS ARE FRIENDLY

Sir Francis Lindley, British Ambassador to Japan, Arrived in City

"Relations between Great Britain and Japan are very friendly at the present time," stated Sir Francis Lindley, G.C.M.G., C.B., C.B.E., retiring British Ambassador to Japan, who reached Victoria this morning from Tokyo aboard the liner Empress of Asia. He will spend a day or two here and will then proceed to England. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. B. N. McEwan.

"Diplomatic conditions between the two countries are much improved over a few years ago," Sir Francis continued. Beyond those few remarks, Sir Francis would make no comment on the recent exchange of diplomatic notes between Great Britain and Japan, concerning the "Hands off Asia" statement of a Japanese Foreign Office spokesman.

Internal conditions in Japan seem to be extremely good, Sir Francis stated. There was little, or no unemployment. He refused to comment on the tariff situation which had arisen since his departure from Yokohama eleven days ago.

TO LIVE IN HAMPSHIRE
I have enjoyed my term of office in Tokyo very much and regretted a great deal to leave Japan," Sir Francis said just before he left the liner here. Lady Lindley's health would not permit her to live in Japan so he offered his resignation to the British Government and will now live in Hampshire.

NRA CODE FOR TELEGRAPHS

Washington, May 7.—The NRA to-day decided to impose a code on the telegraph industry in the United States.

Administrator Hugh S. Johnson made the announcement of a stringent code to be imposed over the objections of the Western Union, American Telephone and Telegraph Company and RCA Communications Inc.

If the plan is carried through this will be the first code forced on an industry by the NRA.

Rare Dragons Arrive Here

St. Empress of Asia Brings Three From Dutch East Indies; Nine Feet Long and Vicious; Eats Raw Meat and Eggs

Three of the rarest and strangest wild creatures in captivity were brought here to-day on the St. Empress of Asia. They were Komodo dragons which had been trapped on the isolated volcanic island of Komodo, in the Dutch East Indies by two youthful zoologists, Lawrence T. K. Griswold of Quincy, Mass., and William H. Harkness of New York city, who were also aboard the liner. One of the dragons died during the Pacific crossing.

Deck Scenes on Battered Norwegian Motorship

These photographs were taken this morning after Pilot E. Jordan of Victoria, had moored the dishevelled Norwegian motorship Chilдар alongside the government dock at Esquimalt. The top picture, taken from the bridge, shows the timbers of the deckload on the after deck strewn about. When the deckload shifted the masts, ventilators and part of the hullwarks were ripped away. The battered funnel is also shown. In the lower picture is shown the lifeboat which crushed to death Odd Melvil, the twenty-year-old Norwegian cook. As the lifeboat was shifted from its stocks and hurled against the superstructure Melvil was caught between them. The next wave washed him overboard.

GOVERNMENT ASKED TO ACT

Saanich Relief Recipients Make Protest to Minister on Reductions

Protesting the recent shake-up in the Saanich relief system, involving loss of allowances for some persons, reductions of some, and suspensions for others, a delegation representing about 150 relief recipients this morning interviewed Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor.

The delegation, through W. B. White as spokesman, asked that in view of the situation that has developed in the municipality the government take over administration of relief in Saanich.

Various cases of alleged hardship worked by the changes in the Saanich relief system were cited. In one case, it was stated, a man who had appeared on a delegation before the municipal relief committee and expressed his views forcibly, had been suspended for one week from relief and his family suffered as a result.

Circular letters received from the municipal offices advising recipients that they would be cut off relief in a specific period and would receive a cash allowance for food only in the meantime were produced. While this was being done to give the recipients more time to secure casual employment, the speakers claimed that this was not fair when work was so hard to find.

Saanich, it was pointed out, had refused to recognize the increased allowances permitted by the government to meet the rise in living costs. In fact, it was claimed, many allowances had been reduced instead.

The reductions and suspensions involved about 150 out of 350 families on relief in the municipality, the delegates said.

Norman W. Whittaker M.P.P. for Saanich, introduced the men.

London, May 7.—(Canadian Press from Havas).—Pirates killed four of the crew of the steamer Tai Yi in an attack to-day off Hongkong, and escaped with booty valued at $10,000.

B.C. Logging Strike Is Considered Over

Meeting of 600 in Vancouver Decides to Return to Work at Minimum Wage Scale; Grievance Committees Said to Be Acceptable

The strike in British Columbia logging camps which has been in progress for more than three months, and at one time tied up some 3,000 men, was considered over to-day.

Six hundred men in Vancouver, who were still on strike, voted yesterday evening, by a large majority at a meeting called by the Lumber Workers' Industrial Union, to go back to work at the wage scale set under the Male Minimum Wage Act. Their decision also called for appointment of grievance committees, which their spokesmen said would be acceptable to the employing companies.

It was stated the men were going back as an organized body. Following the setting up of a minimum wage through the British Columbia Government's Board of Industrial Relations, the only point in dispute was the matter of "camp committees," which the employers refused to grant. Yesterday evening's meeting decided to waive camp committees in favor of grievance committees.

Many camps had already gone to work since the setting up of the minimum wage.

A tag day in Vancouver Saturday for the benefit of striking loggers realized $2,881.

Special to The Times
Fort Alberni, B.C., May 7.—The logging strike would appear to be definitely ended, although this was not expressed by the minority of strikers.

MINISTER'S WIFE DIES

Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Head of Dominion Finance Department, Is Bereaved

Ottawa, May 7.—Parliamentary circles are in mourning to-day owing to the sudden death of Mrs. E. N. Rhodes, wife of the Minister of Finance, which was a shock to a wide circle of friends. Throughout her whole lifetime Mrs. Rhodes was linked in an intimate way with political affairs either in Nova Scotia or in Ottawa.

Daughter of a Liberal Premier of Nova Scotia, the late Hon. W. T. Pipes, Mrs. Rhodes was later the wife of a Conservative Premier of that province. Two prominent Nova Scotia families of differing political faiths were united in 1905 when Mary Grace Pipes was married to Edgar Nelson Rhodes.

Recently Mrs. Rhodes had been in excellent health. She entertained a group of friends Saturday, and Sunday she was found dead in her room, victim of a sudden heart attack. She was fifty-three.

GRAIN PRICES AT CHICAGO RISE

Associated Press
Chicago, May 7.—Grain prices soared upward to-day as speculative buying broadened on news of continued drought in the Midwest. May wheat sold at 85 cents, while May corn hit 48 1/2, July 51 and September 32 1/2. Wheat closed only a fraction from the day's high, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents above Saturday's finish.

Four Crashes Over Week-End

Cars Damaged But Passengers Unhurt in Accidents

Four automobile collisions were reported during the week-end, and in all cases cars were damaged but passengers unhurt.

In a crash Saturday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Hume, 3107 Balfour Avenue, narrowly escaped serious injury when their car turned over on Quadra Street. According to the report, Mr. Hume was travelling south on Quadra, and was about to pass Paul Rowe, R.M.D., who was proceeding in the same direction and turning east on Empress Avenue.

The front axle of the Hume car was broken when it turned over, and the car driven by Mr. Rowe was undamaged.

Extensive damage to the cars involved resulted from a collision on Saturday at the corner of Selkirk Avenue and Bureleigh Drive. W. E. Castens, 878 Selkirk Avenue, was driving north on Bureleigh Drive when he collided with William Kirby, 703 Pine Street, who, with Mrs. Kirby as a passenger, was driving east on Selkirk.

Buddhist Abbot, Former T. Lincoln, Will Be Deported to Canada and China

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Liverpool, May 7.—Tse-tseh Lincoln—once a German spy, now a Buddhist abbot—was held here to-day for deportation to Canada.

Lincoln was arrested Sunday when he declined to proceed to Antwerp within twenty-four hours after his arrival from Canada on the steamer Duchess of York.

He will be deported aboard the same liner.

"I only want to stay four months and preach Buddhism, just as you send missionaries abroad," pleaded Lincoln.

BUSH FIRES IN ALBERTA DISTRICT

Winfield, Alta., May 7.—Bush fires which got out of hand before high winds at the week-end, and caused considerable alarm, to settlers have died out. No serious property loss has been reported, although Saturday farmers were anxiously guarding their homes.

Complete Destruction of Norwegian Motorship Was Inevitable But For Work of U.S. Coastguard Cutter Redwing; With Engines Dead as She Crashed on Columbia River Bar, Ship Was "Crow-hopped" Across Spit; Four of Crew Dead and Five Injured

VESSEL MAY BE REPAIRED HERE

Survey Will Be Effected in Skinner's Cove Graving Dock Immediately Lumber Cargo Has Been Discharged; Repair Contract Will Take Six Weeks

Badly hogged, her keel and sheerstrake set up, her masts and booms gone, lifeboats smashed to splinters, funnel resembling a battered tin can, superstructure wrecked, bulwarks and stanchions bent and twisted, deck equipment strewn about in indescribable confusion, and with gaping rents in her steel plates amidships, the Norwegian motorship Chilдар, which struck on Peacock Spit at the mouth of the Columbia River at 7 o'clock Friday morning, presented a sorry picture of scrap iron as she lay moored alongside the government drydock wharf in Esquimalt Harbor this morning, down at the stern and with a list of ten degrees to port.

The battered ship was towed into this port at 1.10 o'clock this morning by the U.S. tugs Roosevelt and Forrest Crosby, after being snatched from destruction by the United States coastguard cutter Redwing, when she was being carried to what appeared to be certain doom by the relentless breakers.

The roll of dead follows: Helge Andreas Christensen, forty-one, chief officer, washed overboard; Bertram Bjornness, thirty, second officer, washed overboard; Ingolf Bertinius Jacobsen, forty-one, steward, washed overboard; Odd Melvil, twenty, cook, crushed by shifting cargo.

The injured are: Karl Hansen, twenty-four, second cook, with fractured nose, elbow and pelvis; Pat McGrath, Portland, twenty-five, seaman, fractured shoulder and crushed chest; Olaf Loftness, twenty, seaman, fractured pelvis; Alf Jens Dahl, bosun.

Arthur Olsen, electrician, was taken ashore by the Astoria power lifeboat and placed in hospital at Astoria.

Public Works Bill Drafted At Ottawa

Measure to Create Employment Across Canada May Be Introduced in Commons This Week

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 7.—With the prospect of additional government legislation being introduced this week, Parliament resumed its sittings to-day. A number of important measures are about ready for introduction, among them the public works bill, the measure to provide relief for farm debtors and a bill to provide for interim and short-term agricultural credits.

The marketing bill is still in committee. It has met with much opposition since it passed the House on second reading by a vote of 120 to 60.

The budget debate will be resumed some time during the week and then the government will get the reaction of the members to the changes announced in the old tax last week.

AUTO WORKERS
RETURN TO JOBS

Associated Press
St. Louis, Mo., May 7.—Striking employees of the St. Louis Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants had voted overwhelmingly today to return to work.
Eighty-two per cent of the strikers decided to accept an agreement tendered the Federal Automobile Workers of America by the General Motors Corporation, union officials announced.

SOVIET TO BUY
LESS FROM U.S.

Washington Statement Russia Is Debt Defaulter Causes Resentment

Associated Press
Moscow, May 7.—Attorney-General
Homer Cummings' ruling that the Soviet government is a defaulter under the Johnson Act appeared certain today to intensify resentment aroused among Soviet officials by passage of the bill shutting off the United States credit to Moscow.

This sentiment has already crystallized into actual retaliatory steps in the form of a recommendation that all Soviet economic organizations refrain from planning any orders from the United States, with the exception of such items as cannot be had elsewhere.

This recommendation was made recently by the organ of the commissariat of heavy industry and, it is understood, has already been put into effect.

Soviet officials thus far have refused to answer the direct question as to whether Moscow is prepared to negotiate for a settlement of debt claims between the two countries, but apparently at present the Russian temper is not calculated to produce immediate steps in this direction.

Reporters Save
Sleepwalker

Man in Halifax Prevented
From Jumping Into Harbor
From Wharf

Canadian Press
Halifax, May 7.—It was in the early hours of the morning, and three newspapermen were heading homeward after the night's work.
Down at the bottom of Salter Street
they caught a glimpse of a shadowy white figure as it loomed up in the half-light and moved on into the mist.

It looked like a story. The newspapermen quickened their steps, and soon they were abreast of the figure.
It was a man, middle-aged and without clothing save for a long white undergarment into which was tucked a white outer shirt.

He was limping along over the rough cobblestones, pausing now and again to pick a bit of stone from his foot. He seemed headed for some definite objective. It was a wharf, and he turned down and began hobbling over the wooden planking.

He paid no attention to the newspapermen, who had realized by now
they were following a sleepwalker.
They trailed along behind, wondering how to divert the somnambulist from what seemed now his obvious intention. One had heard it was dangerous to wake a sleepwalker, and they hesitated to rouse him.

Then they had an idea. Suggestion—that was it. The undressed gentleman was about ten feet from the edge of the wharf when a couple of the newshounds stepped up. "Kind of cold for a swim," one suggested.
"Wouldn't be very comfortable down there. Don't you think it would be a better idea to wait for later in the year?"

"Guess I'll go home," he decided.
And arm-in-arm he and the newspapermen walked up the wharf.

This nocturnal excursion was out of the usual and it came close to being his last. He cannot swim.

MILITARISM IS SEEN SPREADING

U.S. Secretary of State Says
Many Nations Are Adding to Armaments

Associated Press
Washington, May 7.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull believes militarism sweeping many sections of the world may lead to war, unless curbed through international co-operation to promote peace, understanding and friendship.

In an address at the week-end before his fellow alumni of Cumberland University, Mr. Hull said:

"To-day numerous nations are feverishly arming. They are taxing their citizens beyond the limit of ability to pay, and in many ways developing a military spirit which, regardless of present motives or self-defence, may finally lead to war, unless past human experience is reversed."

TWO HUNTED
IN KOOTENAY

Police Watch Highways For Young Men Who Escaped
From Jail at Lethbridge

Canadian Press
Nelson, B.C., May 7.—British Columbia provincial police were patrolling roads in the East Kootenay district to-day looking for Ronald Botterill, twenty-one, and B. Blackwood, twenty-two, who escaped from jail at Lethbridge, Alta., on April 12, while serving a one-year sentence each.

Police picked up in Cranbrook a fifteen-year-old girl who told them
she had accompanied the two men from Calgary. She said a second girl from Calgary was still with them.

According to information to the police from the girl and other sources, the young men are alleged to have broken into two places between Calgary and the British Columbia border and to have obtained gasoline and oil.

On May 3, police say, they took a sedan, 1933 model, dust-colored, from the vicinity of Calgary and headed for the East Kootenay. Botterill was born in Cranbrook, though he has not lived there for some years.

The girl picked up in Cranbrook said she had been "ditched" by the other three, she was without money and was wandering about when found. She said the men had been talking of getting across the United States boundary, and she came from Sand Point, Idaho, originally.

Italians Have
New Navy Plans

Number of Ships to Be Modernized in Next Few Years

Associated Press
Rome, May 7.—Additional expenditures for new naval construction totaling 480,000,000 lire, or about $40-000,000, to be spread over a five-year period, had been announced to-day in the official gazette. This expenditure,
The Gazette explained, is merely complementary to usual appropriation for new construction.

Naval circles said the money is destined for the recently inaugurated programme for modernization of older ships of the navy, to bring it into conformity with those of neighboring powers, particularly France.

REORGANIZATION
PLANS STUDIED

Chicago Statement on Insult
Utilities Company's Affairs
Shows Earnings Increasing

Associated Press
Chicago, May 7.—Deep down in a statement from the receiver of the Middle West Utilities Company, its stockholders to-day had found a peg on which to hang their hopes that there is still a little "gold in them there" gilt-edged certificates of stock.

"So far as the receiver has been informed," said Charles H. McCulloch,
"there is no intention of excluding stockholders from the reorganization."

Those shareholders had seen their common stock flattened out from a market value of $57 a share to a few cents.

Two months ago they were called together with representatives of preferred stockholders, note-holders, and secured creditors of what was Samuel Insull's $3,000,000,000 prize baby to do the preliminary blue print work on a reorganization. Receiver Mc-Culloch told them to figure it out and hand in a scheme to him.

The receiver has now announced that preliminary monthly reports of Middle West's operating utilities in the first quarter of 1934 showed "uniform improvement in operating revenues," he added.

"The present trend of earnings indicates that an early reorganization of the Middle West Utilities Company is now possible and therefore desirable."

POLICE SEEKING ONTARIO MAN

Associated Press
Sanria, Ont., May 7.—Police to-day were searching for Matthew Doyle of Port Lambton, alleged to have seriously wounded his sixty-year-old wife Saturday. Police allege it is the third attack the man has made on his wife and they are working on the theory
the man's body may be found in the St. Clair River. Mrs. Doyle will recover.

According to police, Doyle, released from the Stony Mountain Penitentiary last September, attacked his wife with some instrument which has not been found. The woman was looking out of the window at the time and police declare the couple had not been quarrelling. Doyle then removed some papers from a dresser, set fire to them and then disappeared, police state.

Mrs. Doyle was found on the floor of her home by her two sons, who returned from a party at the Port Lambton School at midnight. There was a wound in the woman's scalp which required twenty stitches to close.

Doyle was sent to the Stony Mountain Penitentiary in 1928 to serve a seven-year term for attacking his wife, police said.

BIG THEFT IN JUGOSLAVIA

Canadian Press from Havas

great sensation had been caused here today by the discovery of an embezzlement of almost 16,000,000
dinars (about $3,200,000). It was said the government immediately started proceedings against Mileta Novakovic, former professor of law and judge of the court of arbitration at The Hague.

The large sum was obtained in transactions for railroad equipment.

HEPBURN FACES
CRUCIAL TEST

A Flop on Broadway, She Must Do Best in Next Picture

Hollywood, May 7.—With the crucial point of her career facing her, Katharine Hepburn will return here in a couple of weeks to start work on her next film.

This picture is important to Miss Hepburn, possibly more important than any she has made. Upon it may hang the entire future of this fascinating actress.

She has been away from Hollywood for some months. During that time she took one brief and not entirely successful fling on Broadway. Consequently, her forthcoming production must be good.

For this reason she probably will go into "Break of Hearts" instead of "Break of Arc" for her first film. And it is quite likely that she again will be teamed with John Barrymore, with whom she made such a hit in her first picture, "Bill of Divorcement."

Personally, I see no cause to worry about the future of this Hepburn girl. Regardless of what she did on Broadway, in my opinion she is the outstanding character on the screen to-day—an actress who will be good in anything she attempts.

However, studio executives are cautious. They want this next film to be an assured success before it is even started. In taking this attitude, they're smart.

Belgians Sell

Increase in Arms Traffic
Seen as More Orders Come in Republic

Canadian Press from Havas
Paris, May 7.—A considerable increase in arms traffic from Belgium to France was traced to-day by Belgian arms manufacturers, mostly in the centre of France, La Liberté said to-day.

Border authorities noted the increase and reported it to the ministry of the interior. The arms were shipped to irreproachable arms manufacturers, and no political organizations were concerned. The manufacturers increased their stocks
because of orders by local armors.

FLOOD LOSS IN NEW ZEALAND

Many Farm Animals in Kaituna and Price's Valleys Drowned

Canadian Press via Reuters
Wellington, N.Z., May 7.—Reports received to-day that the beautiful Kaituna and Price's valleys on the Banks peninsula had been devastated by a phenomenal rainfall and that most of the livestock in the district had been drowned.

Twelve inches of rain which fell in a few hours were said to have turned tiny streams into raging torrents that swept away whole areas of hill-land, leaving the valleys covered with silt, logs and boulders.

No loss of human life was reported, although almost all settlers were forced to flee from their homes.

The Kaituna and Price's valleys are on the South Island of New Zealand in Canterbury province and a short distance south of the city of Christchurch.

ECONOMICS AND GEOGRAPHY

REDUCED TO UNDIPLOMATIC LANGUAGE. Japan has said to Great Britain that she is not worried about the threat that Japanese exports to British colonies may have to be put on a quota basis. In the matter of textiles, which for long have been Britain's right horse, Nippon says she is able to take care of herself.

It will be noted that the British colonies only are involved. Japan comes back with the rejoinder that her imports from Canada, Australia, India, South Africa, and New Zealand last year were worth 463,000,000 yen, while her exports were worth 292,000,000 yen, or a very substantial advantage to the British Dominions mentioned. On the other hand, Japan's trade with the United Kingdom in 1933 was about an even exchange.

The implication of this is, as far as Japan is concerned, the Dominions in question are hardly likely to change their trade policy, as a matter of sentiment, which now gives them the better of the bargain. Canada certainly can not afford to get into a trade war with Japan. We have there a Minister, now in this country on leave, who repeatedly tells us that we ought to be doing more business with Japan than we are doing, that greater efforts should be put forth to increase Canadian-Japanese trade. He is quite right; this is a matter which vitally affects the exporters of British Columbia.

This controversy emphasizes the fallacy of the economic-nationalism-mania which has gripped the world. Great Britain built up her external trade by selling in the dearest markets and buying in the cheapest. It was this policy which enabled her to take the fullest advantage of the dawn of the industrial era. Since then, of course, other countries, notably Canada in the British Commonwealth, have followed suit.

At the Ottawa conference in 1932, Mr. Baldwin made it quite plain that Britain, could on no account forego her foreign markets. Indeed, no sooner had the British delegates got back to London after that meeting, than negotiations were immediately commenced with foreign countries looking to a further expansion of business.

Business can not be done on sentiment. Concessions have to be made between one nation and another; but all must be based on the fundamental principle that if there is to be buying there must also be selling. Business, after all, is an exchange of goods. If Britain did not import her raw materials, her industries would have to close down, because she does not produce many of the raw materials which are essential to her industrial life.

Britain now has realized that there are many dollars' worth of food products she has been in the habit of importing from the Dominions and foreign countries which she ought to be producing, and could be producing, herself under a more practical utilization of her arable land.

All these factors have a bearing on any move by any country to try to impose artificial restrictions on trade against another. The Britannic Commonwealth of Nations long has discovered that it can not exist under one foreign policy; it is now clear that it can not operate under a common economic policy, Geography is still a big factor in trade.

CONSCIENCE MONEY

PERHAPS THERE ARE SOME AMONG us who have got into a somewhat cynical frame of mind and are apt to regard any taxpayer who has a touch of conscience as a subject for observation by a mental expert. When we say conscience, we mean the person who has not been as frank as the law required him to be in making out his income tax return, and has "got away with it."

There was a notable case recently, however, of a real touch of conscience, not a fifty-dollar or hundred-dollar affair by any means. Hon. R. C. Matthews, Minister of National Revenue, found in his mail the other morning a bank draft for $5,400, one of the largest sums ever received from one of the rare species—a repentant sinner.

As a rule, of course, "conscience money" as it is associated with income tax is confined to less than a hundred dollars. To get a draft for $5,400 must have been a shock for the department at Ottawa.

These conscience payments, by the way, would seem to furnish a theme for some writer of imagination who is able to explain in simple detail why it is that income tax forms have to contain such a lot of jargon which is seemingly unnecessary and which, in some cases, is not easy to understand.

THE RETURN OF INSULL

AS THIS IS WRITTEN, SAMUEL INSULL, seventy-four-year-old public utilities magnate, is aboard a train headed for Chicago. He arrived at Fort Hancock, N.J., at a little after eight o'clock this morning in the freighter Exilona from Greece, where, for some time, he had been able successfully to get around extradition proceedings. Greece then changed her mind about him and he fled to Turkey. But his stay in the country presided over by Mustafa Kemal Pasha was only a short one. The long hand of the law finally fell on his shoulder early in April, when he was placed aboard ship by Turkish authorities in the custody of Third Secretary Burton Y. Berry, of the United States Embassy at the Turkish capital, Istanbul.

We are informed that from his demeanor while aboard ship "he appeared not very particularly perturbed about returning to America to stand trial" in Chicago for alleged embezzlement. On his arrival this morning he said: "I have erred, but my greatest error was in underestimating the effects of the financial panic on American securities, and particularly on the companies I was trying to build." He emphasized this statement by adding that he had worked with all his energy to save those companies; that his mistakes were honest mistakes, that they were errors in judgment, but "not dishonest manipulations." And in conclusion: "I am here in America to make the most important fight of my life—not only for freedom, but for complete vindication." How the general public—particularly those who lost their all through Mr. Insull's "errors in judgment"—will reconcile this statement with eighteen months energetic and costly attempts to avoid coming back to this continent to make the most important fight of his life naturally furnishes ample material for speculation.

On the ship which brought him back to the United States, newspapermen were told by Mr. Insull that he did not "run away" when he left Chicago for foreign parts; but that he departed "as any other ordinary person would do." Yet it is a matter of history that when he was in Paris he denied his identity and fled, with his wife, to Greece—and there began a long drawn-out "comic opera adventure," as one commentator describes it, with a tramp steamship and efforts to elude extradition law in the Balkans.

Insull's pyramided empire, wrote Mr. Russell Owen in The New York Times some time ago, became too unwieldy. First the late Belgian financier, Albert Loewenstein, who was lost from an airplane over the English Channel, tried to buy into the Insull companies, but without success. A more serious antagonist, Cyrus S. Eaton, of Cleveland, did succeed in buying into the combine. Insull tried to fight back, but, in doing so, it cost him $60,000,000. Eaton's profit was $20,000,000. Two years later, in April, 1932, Middle West Utilities crashed. Investors lost $750,000,000 and the bankers lost $43,500,000.

So go the Kreugers, the Hatrys, the Stavisks; but the tragic part of it is, when they fall their crash brings down with them so many who have worshipped the golden calf, to learn that their life's savings have been burned on the altar of speculation. No matter what happens to Samuel Insull, the mental agony through which thousands of investors have gone, and are still going, as the result of his "underestimating the effects of the financial panic," will not diminish.

GOLD FROM THE DEEP?

A NEW ATTEMPT IS TO BE MADE BY a Dutch company to recover the coin and bullion of the British ship Lutine, which was sunk off the Dutch coast in October, 1799. The treasure is estimated at $5,000,000, but this may be unduly optimistic, says The Manchester Guardian, as all the papers relating to the ship were burnt in the Royal Exchange fire of 1838, so that the true purpose of the Lutine's mission and the precise amount she carried are unknown.

Romantic exploration and commercial enterprise are not, apparently, inseparable, and for over a century the sea-dogs of Holland, with the aid of the shipyards of Terschelling, have made assiduous attempts to salvage the wreck. The earlier attempts, we are told, were made with primitive diving apparatus, but the three feet of sand which covered the wreck was an insuperable obstacle.

Later and more mechanically minded searches brought huge grips to their aid, but the good ship Lutine was not perturbed by such prehensile fiddling and the owners lost both grips and treasure. For thirty years the Lutine remained undisturbed and she settled herself comfortably on the more permanent clay bottom which she had now reached. The three feet of sand became thirty-five feet and suction machinery had to be used. Beyond a few pieces of timber, lumps of rust and occasional coins and cannonballs, little treasure was forthcoming.

The pumping-tower, operating by means of powerful suction, which the new company is introduced may be more successful. So far it is a little disappointing. The first week-end's work brought forth only a wooden beam, a number of nails, and a tin spoon.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE NEW GOLD TAX
The Toronto Star

It is not easy to find fault with the principle of the new gold tax. Not long ago the gold mines were receiving $20 odd per ounce for their gold, since which time by government action they have been permitted to receive $35 per ounce. The outlook for gold mining companies altered magically for the better as a consequence, and it is not unreasonable now to require the mines to share some of their good fortune with the general public.

WHE IS A 1934 MODEL
The St. Thomas Times-Journal

In the refreshment room of the airport at Croydon, London, a reporter found Mrs. Margaret Terry, a widow, of Norfolk, seated at a table drinking a cocktail and smoking a cigarette. She had just arrived after flying to Cape Town and back, a distance of 18,000 miles, having hired the machine and pilot to make the trip because she was feeling a bit lonely. She enjoyed it so much that she said she thought she would sell her car and buy a plant, probably learning to fly it herself.

Mrs. Terry is eighty-one years of age.

Her grandchildren and great-grandchildren will have a job to keep up with her.

RELATED SPRING
The Hamilton Spectator

All Britain is experiencing one of the latest springs known for many years. The hedges are bare, even the quicks no more than in bud. The wheat is as short as the grass and looked parched, or almost withered and on the sandy soils, and farmers spend their time in "rolling the moisture up."

Gardeners watch in vain for the appearance of the asparagus that they were eating freely at this time last year. There is little blackthorn, though the "blackthorn winter" has been apparent enough. The ground-nesting birds will have little cover from the eyes of marauding crows and rooks. The brave thrushes and blackbirds are building so conspicuously that you can birds-nest from a car!

The ponds and wells and runs are as low as at the top of the drought; but when all is said, a late spring is always welcome to the farmer, and, above all, to the fruit farmer; and prospects on the land are generally good, especially in the orchards, where the suns of last summer should assure an unusual wealth of blossom.

Ottawa and Its Politics

General McRae and League of Nations—Canada and Europe's mess—Resolution of non-participation in foreign wars inevitable—Mr. Meighen's attitude.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

OTTAWA.

THE WAR veterans of Ottawa paraded to the Parliament Buildings not long ago. General A. D. McRae, of British Columbia, who happened to be a war veteran also, presided over the parade from the window of his office, noticed how many of the veterans had lost legs and arms, how old they looked, how few were fit for front-line service again, how many were broke, shabby and on the dole. General McRae remembered that he had just returned from Europe, where he saw at first hand the universal preparations for war. He sat down at his desk and wrote a resolution in which he asked Canada to withdraw from the League of Nations, to keep out of foreign entanglements that might lead to war.

At this writing the resolution seems sure to be defeated, but that will not be the end of it. General McRae has brought to the surface an issue which, in one form or another, is destined to be one of the most important questions before the Canadian people during the next few years—the question whether we are to go into foreign wars or keep out of them. All members of the House of Commons are planning to pursue the question before the present session ends.

Behind the McRae motion rejecting the League is the desire to keep Canada out of any war at all except in defence of its own boundaries. The Senator, perhaps, was more fond of and parliamentary in his procedure than expedient. That is to say, he cannot secure passage of a resolution rejecting the League, but he could have probably got enormous support for a resolution declaring that Canada was out of foreign wars for good.

The kind of a general resolution will come later. The question will not be dropped. As a matter of fact, behind the scenes here, that question is agitating everyone, but apparently it is the kind of thing one doesn't talk about much openly. The threat of war which would involve us is so real that one of the first half dozen statements of Canada told me to-day that, with events moving so fast all over the world, it was quite possible Canada would find herself at war within two or three years if she didn't take steps to avoid this calamity. Another war would make every security in this country worthless, he said, and render it impossible ever to meet our debts. He talked about it, but he didn't propose to do anything about it.

That is the trouble. No one seems ready to do anything about it. General McRae is much criticized, indeed, not so much by men who oppose to his policy, but by men who agree with him, but don't wish to create an embarrassing issue. There are many others who are against any war for other than defence purposes, but who do not feel that it is necessary to withdraw from the League.

But General McRae argues that so long as we are in the League, we are bound by Article 10, to go to the defence of fellow members of the League which are attacked. The only honorable way out of this obligation, he says, is to withdraw from it in plenty of time, not to wait until the last minute and give our friends no warning.

To this many parliamentarians reply that no nation is going to involve itself in foreign war through the League, and they point to the fact that the League didn't attempt the use of force against the Japanese in Manchuria. Senator Dandurand, former League president, asserts that Canada will never be required to involve itself in economic sanctions.

These two viewpoints are so consolidated during the next year behind a more general resolution declaring Canada's determination not to defend the boundaries of any foreign country. At this or the next session of Parliament this issue will come to a vote. The purpose of the move is to lay down the country's hostility to foreign wars as a fundamental point of Canadian policy, just as the Monroe Doctrine is an inflexible point of United States policy though it is covered by no law. It exists by universal consent.

Canada, of course, has no foreign policy for the reason that, in the rush of developing herself and then of meeting the depression, she has had no time to think about such things. She has been content so far to concentrate on her internal business and leave these larger affairs to the British Government, or just to the mercy of events.

Now you find in Ottawa a sudden new interest in foreign affairs. The preparations for war in Europe, the rumbling in the Far East, have given the average member of Parliament pause. He realizes that this country, which hasn't begun to pay for the last war, which can't finance her own defence, may be faced in the near future with the awful decision of war and peace. On this subject a great deal of serious thinking has been done here, but not much talking, apart from General McRae's bold and able speech in the Senate.

MR. MEIGHEN'S ATTITUDE

OF COURSE, no one wants war. But men who have been at the head of affairs when the war issue has been raised before, will tell you that it is a difficult, almost an impossible thing, to stem the tide of the war spirit once it is roused. They recall that when Mr. King was being urged to go to war with Turkey in 1914, a decade ago he was bogged down by every part of Canada with demands that he start hostilities right away, and Mr. Meighen said his answer to the British Government's inquiry should have been "Ready, yes, ready."

Mr. Meighen changed his mind after that and, in his famous Hamilton speech, demanded that the election be consulted before any government be allowed to involve the country in any foreign war.

To-day the Liberal party is alarmed because, under the new blank cheque legislation for the peace, order and good government, the cabinet can involve the country in war without consulting Parliament at all.

General McRae's proposal is a national referendum before troops are sent abroad. He would not allow this supreme life-and-death issue to become involved in the partisanship of a general election. He would keep it clear of any party and free the decision, as much as possible, from propaganda and ballyhoo. The vote, he thinks, could be taken in three weeks—an inconsequential delay in a foreign war. If Canada itself were attacked, of course, there would be no referendum. If you are attacked you defend yourself.

Since Mr. Meighen and General McRae, both powerful Conservatives, are for a direct reference to the people, and Mr. King is for parliamentary control over the war issue as against control by the government, it is evident that when these questions are finally crystallized in a new resolution at the next session of Parliament the policy of staying out of foreign wars will receive strong support on both sides of Parliament.

A lot of men in Parliament and on the fringes of it have thought much further along these lines. The radical school, including the C.C.P. and many of the left-wing Liberals, see in the present economic system the inevitable preliminary of war. In a world laboring under the fallacy that foreign markets would be the only way out of the depression, they say, war is inevitable. The clash of nations trying to control these markets will produce war again, just as it has before.

Indeed, that is the present system's only way out of the depression, they believe—the only way it can absorb the goods from its machines. It will not adopt a logical distribution system. It will not allow the goods to reach the people who want them. Instead it will absorb the surplus wealth by blowing it up in the form of munitions and war supplies.

WAR AND ITS CONSEQUENCES

A BIG WAR, it is agreed, would produce an immediate wave of prosperity. Prices of food and manufactured goods would go up. There would be work and wages for everyone supplying the materials that would be destroyed, along with the people. But after that would come a depression which would make this one appear exceedingly mild.

Staggering under the present debt, we would find ourselves with it doubled or tripled at least, as occurred in the last war. Inevitably the debts could not be paid. All securities would be worthless. All personal savings and life insurance would be wiped out. We would have to start again at scratch.

Our economic system would crash with terrible results to everyone, apart altogether from the direct human suffering involved. The strain on our political institutions in such a situation would be terrific. Probably in many countries the existing institutions could not survive. You would have, these more radical thinkers assert, an inevitable turn to communism on one side or fascism on the other.

But can Canada keep out of a first-class war? They argue it here endlessly, not in the public forum of Parliament, where these things should be discussed, but quietly, in the lobbies. One school holds that, with a large foreign trade to protect from the depredations of belligerents, Canada inevitably would be dragged into hostilities; even if she were not involved by Britain's participation.

The other school, which has found a spokesman in General McRae, believes that Canada need not go mad just because the countries of Europe do so. They believe that non-participation may involve temporary losses of trade, may force Canada to forego some large profits, which it could make by the sale of war materials.

and other goods to belligerents in order to avoid armed clashes with the enemies of its customers. But this, they feel, is better than committing what may turn out to be national suicide by actual participation in the war.

Don't forget, they say, the fabric of Confederation is under heavy strain now. If another war does not receive almost unanimous approval in the country, or if it produces economic disaster afterwards, then Canada, they fear, may face disintegration. General McRae, indeed, is one of those who holds that another world war will mean the end of European civilization as we know it. He would keep this country out of such an adventure, but he feels that there is little time left to rouse the Canadian people to these dangers. We cannot keep Canada out of the next war, he and his friends believe, by refusing to think about it.

Other People's Views

WANTS ANOTHER STAIRWAY

TO THE EDITOR:—Reading in The Times about the placing of a much-needed stairway in close proximity to Hon. Wells Grey's department, it is pleasing to note that at last someone has dared to make such a necessary change in the buildings, and here's hoping that while making one stairway they won't stop until another one is placed by which the Speaker's Gallery may be reached without discomfort, as at present, I have on two occasions had a seal in this gallery for the opening of the Legislature, and after passing long rows of people already seated in the side galleries, I felt I was in truth plenty "knock-kneed" by the time I reached the Speaker's Gallery. I may say there are other good reasons why the necessity for this extra stairway.

ALICE McCREOR,

DO NOT WANT IT

TO THE EDITOR:—A. M. Hancock, writing in Saturday's paper, says: "Isn't there some way in which we can become an independent province the same as Newfoundland?" Newfoundland is not an independent province, but a crown colony. Until a few months ago it was a Dominion enjoying the privileges of nationhood, the same as Canada and Australia. Unfortunately it became involved in financial difficulties, and this was made the excuse for depriving Newfoundland of its sovereignty. Native-born Canadians do not want the same disaster to befall British Columbia.

SEES SCIENCE AS SOLUTION

Dr. C. S. Beals Tells the Astronomical Society of Progress in Science

Solution of the ills of the world through the application of science to the problems of living was seen as a possibility by Dr. C. S. Beals, F.R.C.S., of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, in an address before the Victoria Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada in the Y.W.C.A. Friday evening.

Science could and most possibly would affect human nature, the speaker said. The theories of the Technocrats were not beyond realization, he believed.

Given time, he stated, science would work out a plan of proper distribution which would solve present economic problems and bring to the fore scientific discoveries which are now awaiting application.

He foretold an increase in longevity, stating medical research had made rapid progress in recent years.

and appeared to be on the way to making further strides forward. A deeper study of psychology and ethics would be undertaken by the scientist. Many of the age old taboos would fall away and aids to living would take the place of tyrannical restrictions, Dr. Beals said.

INTERNATIONAL OUTLOOK
The speaker stressed the international outlook of science, declaring it was not restricted to the bounds of countries and tended to foster goodwill among nations. He declared charges of causing war, leveled against the scientists, were largely unjustifiable.

Briefly he spoke of the apparent lack of evolution in man during the last 25,000 years, propounding the question, was the human being to-day the finished product or merely evidence of an intermediary stage between the past and a further development in the future?

Throughout his lecture he presented excellent lantern slides.

Baseball Meeting Set For Tuesday

Mount View P.T.A.
To Stage Dance

The Mount View High School Parent-Teacher Association will hold its last dance and card party of the season at the special request of the young people, on Wednesday evening. Cards will commence at 8:30 and the dancing at 9:15 o'clock and a big crowd is expected.

This week offers are being made to finish the tennis courts by Saturday, and teams of girls and boys are competing in the removal of the weeds. The first court cleared will be presented with the tennis net donated by W. J. Bowland, thus enabling it to be opened first for play. It is hoped the work will be completed by Saturday evening.

"H.M.S. PINAFORE"
ON TONIGHT

Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore," as produced by the Burdick Club of Victoria, is to be repeated this evening at the Shrine Auditorium at 8:15 o'clock. In response to a large call from the public, the Juvenile Operatic Society take pleasure in presenting the opera again, and it will be staged with elaborate effects, stage lighting and assisted by a good orchestra.

The large chorus sings and dances admirably, and the principals will be found to be quite adequate in their respective roles. The feature dancing members which made such a hit, will again be in the show.

A capacity audience is expected with the price of admission low and no reserved seats.

Miss Beatrice Butler, whose marriage to John McCallum of Bamber- ton took place in Mr. Newton Cassell's Church, Saturday morning, has recently been the guest of honor at a number of showers. Under the auspices of the South Saanich Women's Institute and Junior Institute Club, a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. H. A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cameron, Kingston St., on Saturday, to wish Mrs. Cameron and her daughter, Betty, bon voyage on their trip to Scotland. Mrs. Cameron was presented with a small token of remembrance. During the evening songs were enjoyed, and little Betty Cameron delighted the guests with her Scotch dances and songs. So many tables were reserved for the opening dance at Hamsterley Lakeside on Saturday night that a good crowd was assured before the music started. The redecoration of the pavilion and the orchestra pit added to the gaiety of the scene and the dainty puerile with her balloons caused great excitement. This feature will be slightly changed in arrangement for next week, in order to give a larger number of patrons a greater chance at the prizes. London, May 7.—The Royal Academy of Arts has written the octogenarian artist, Adrian Stokes, rebuking him for interrupting a speech of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at the Academy dinner last Thursday evening.

Stokes interrupted the Prime Minister, who was talking about national and world affairs and asked him why he did not say something about the Academy's show. The president of the academy council wrote Mr. MacDonald, apologizing for the incident. Stokes, however, showed no penitence and remarked he was still "very glad" he had been "discourteous."

WORLD'S STANDARD OF QUALITY

THE
Lone Wolf's Son

By Louis Joseph Vance

A lifted hand enjoined attention; and upon the hush that answered it, an instant of speechless suspense, addressed by the muffled rumor of engines choked down to half-speed or less, and by a complete cessation of the slough or water down the side, the drone of an airplane fell like long-drawn thunder.

"The mail plane!" Tess Boyce started to her feet. "You mean he's flying? What came over him all of a sudden?"

"Does it matter, madame?" "Why—I suppose it doesn't." She seemed to grasp for the first time that her excitement might give rise to wonder. "I was surprised—that's all; it seemed so sudden—"

I don't imagine Maurice would mind my telling you what you must surmise for yourself as so an you know the name of the other passenger. Lanyard kept close though covert watch for an inkling of the woman's ill-dissembled emotion, but found it quite beyond his fathoming. What the devil, the man mused. It couldn't be that she was distressed by any sentimental feeling. What then—in the name of reason? "Made-moiselle Crozier, so Maurice told me, wheeled her mother into consenting to the adventure, and he was entreprising enough to decide, on the spur of the moment, to go with her."

The thunder rolled till it became a sustained thick rumble, struck new, less impatient note, and went into a swift dwindle as a cheer from the decks attested a successful take-off.

"Well, anyway," Isquith observed with a dry chuckle, "there, Your Highness—or my guess is a bad mis—there goes your rube."

But the Rajah made no articulate answer. Exasperation had him by the throat and was visibly shaking him. He shuttered and thrashed the air in an attempt to express the unspeakable. And before he could refine his tongue, one of his suite was announcing:

"The captain saith."

The tedious time that Lanyard subsequently spent in limbo was relieved by nothing except the attentions of a tactful stewardess till the Maytore had made halt at quarantine and gathered way for the short last lap to her dock. Then, nearing one end of his new quarters, whose length he had taken to prowling for want of a better way to work off the ferment of pent temper, the man heard a small noise behind him, came smartly about, to discover that the door had been softly opened and an unannounced caller admitted. Crane, whom Lanyard had not seen since the American detective's friendly warning of inimical influences, stood observing him quizzically.

"Well, you're about as I never looked to see—the Lone Wolf in the house-gow! It took me quite a while to dope out what had become of you, but once I knew, I just—had to shrill for a stare at the exhibit! I've got to hand it to friend Pion; he ain't no ordinary dick. Far be it from him to advertise he'd just pulled the shortest pinch of the season for all that us passengers knew about it, you might simply have done a nose dive into the wake."

"But Madame Boyce knew—and the Rajah, and Isquith!"

"Believe it or not, tella, that lot never let out a peep. I had to do a good piece of snooping before I got the low-down."

"Your success there doesn't surprise me so much as that you contrived by any means to persuade Pion to let you visit me."

"Yeah! I'd be a gay dick, wouldn't I, if I told you all my girlish secrets? I wrangled it, and that's all you've got to know about it just at present. What's more to the point is to find out how you got framed like this, and what I can do to spring you before this good ship sails back with you to that dear France."

"You are a good fellow, my friend," Lanyard protested, as Crane made himself at home in a chair, "but I am afraid there is nothing."

"Let me tell you."

He succinctly related the tale of his afternoon at cards and its upshot:

"Pion, I must confess, surprised me by showing some disposition to give me a chance. He was the captain who wouldn't listen to reason; a mean creature, that one, all in a fever to truckle to His Honey-colored Highness. Not that our dear Pion was noticeably downcast by the ultimatum that brought me to this pass."

"Not no kidding? Still and all, I shouldn't wonder if you're right, at that, it's the cap'n that's the polecat. Mean to say he wouldn't give you any break at all? Wouldn't even frisk the others for the rube? Looks like there must be something besides plain cussedness behind the way he's acting."

"I assure you he took Isquith's kind conjecture as if it might have been inspiration from on high, took it for granted that nobody else could possibly have made away with the rube, and I had passed it on to Maurice—even went so far as to promise he would arrange by wireless to have Maurice searched to the skin upon landing. And there is another matter that perplexes the beyond measure."

"What?"

Lanyard handed the detective a sheet of creased paper.

"A radio from my son announcing his safe arrival. Observe, if you please, that it was written in high spirits, the boy was delighted with his adventure and enchanted with America—it conveys not a hint of any unpleasantness encountered or landing."

"Don't see any reason why it should have. Chances are he took his reception as pretty much what our customers officials. And seeing as he didn't have any rubies on him, the experience couldn't have turned out unpleasantly."

"It depends, I dare say, on what the captain actually wirelessed in comparison with what he promised. The impression he plainly gave was that he meant to have Maurice held under arrest, even if the rube were not found on him, pending our arrival."

"Maybe he had an attack of second-thought. You know how these frogs are—when they're all excited up, they'll promise hell and all, but they generally calm down and think things over before they let themselves in for anything that might have serious consequences."

CHAPTER XVII

"He may have done just what he said he would, at that—maybe he had got off light because Miss Crozier's pa was on hand to meet her when the plane lit, and she got him to say a good word for Maurice."

"But how can we be sure M. Crozier—"

"Stands to reason he'd be there to greet his daughter and finance mama's emeralds through the customs."

Lanyard opened a frank stare, and the detective quaked with deep enjoyment.

"The idea bein' that I wasn't supposed to be wise to that angle?" The bronze mask bent crinkling over the flame that Crane was setting to his pipe. "I guess, at that, maybe I've got no business to; but it's like I told you—hard to stop an old mule from brownin' on any loose feed he comes across."

"The more I see of you, my friend, the less wonder I feel when it appears that you know everything."

"Not everything," Crane with judicial gravity confessed. "Take this dumb Isquith, now—he's still got me guessin'. All I know about him is he's phony. And one thing you don't know yet is that the old girl yanked that green ice out of the purser's box just before the plane sailed and gave it to Miss Penno to take in and declare—thereby alippin' one over the mob that's tallin' the junk."

"And one is happy to infer, from the tenor of this telegram, that the ruse was successful."

The detective shook his head gravely. "The rube, at all in yet. All we know so far is that he stole several lengths' lead while the rest of the locks were nappin'; but that doesn't mean the ice is won yet; there's a dark horse in it, or I ain't track wise."

LAKES GAIN
NEW NAMESCity Water Board
Christens Bodies of Water to Avoid Duplication

Six lakes and three creeks which are under the jurisdiction of the city, to-day were endowed with new names, subject to approval by provincial authorities as the result of a christening tour made by the water-board.

Loon Lake will henceforth be known as Mavis Lake, Little Thetis becomes Harris Lake, Goldstream Lake No. 1 retains its original name, while the second and third Goldstream lakes will in future be known as Lube and Butchart Lakes, respectively.

Darlington Lake is renamed Currie Lake and Horton or Tod Lake becomes Brown Lake. As alternatives, if any of these duplicate names already in use, Prior, Hunter, Begbie and Elan, should may be used as substitutes for the names.

NIAGARA IN REVERSE
Niagara Creek, is renamed Aragan Creek, Deer Creek the appellation Council Creek and Ferguson Creek is changed to Rithet Creek.

Changing of names was done in response to a request from the Geographic Board of Canada seeking that action to avoid duplication of names in a new map of the lower part of Vancouver Island, which will be made shortly by the Department of National Defense.

HOROSCOPE
"The stars incline, but do not compel"

TUESDAY, MAY 8, 1934
The aspects of benefic power rule strongly from morning till evening.

Cuba is to sustain severe financial difficulties, due to lack of support of the sugar crop, the seers prophesy, but a new leader may be helpful in governmental affairs.

In the world's terminology, which ranks the new era, so long prophesied by astrologers, the stars preface increased importance.

While centres of population are made beautiful many Americans will leave congested cities for the country, a decided back-to-the-land movement among well-to-do seems to preface successful experimental operations.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of much activity and success. Romance will engage the attention of the young.

Children born on this day probably will be artists in nature and kindly in disposition. Subjects of this sign are imaginative and enthusiastic.

Louis M. Gottschalk, pianist and composer, was born on this day, 1828. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Philip F. LePage, former governor of Wisconsin, 1897, and Augusta Jane Evans, novelist, 1835.

Mosley's Views On Jews Stated

London, May 7.—Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the British Fascist movement, yesterday said his party's programme did not include persecution or discrimination against the Jews.

Several newspapers had attacked Mosley for alleged anti-Semitism since the recent great Fascist rally in Albert Hall here.

"It is not the British way," Sir Oswald said, "to persecute for birth and religion. But, like the rest, the Jews must put Britain, not Jewry, first."

WOMEN
PLAY FAIR...

Had She the Right To Preach?

No sooner had the words left her mouth than she realized her mistake. "A loan is not a gift," she had said, when her Peggy wanted to keep Mary's doll.

Then, suddenly, she remembered the bills on the table—long past due! Had she the right to preach?

Only that morning she had received a letter from one of her creditors and had lightly tossed it aside. Now she re-read it, with thoughtful eyes. . . .

"Dear Mrs. B. . . ." the letter read. "We are sorry to trouble you about the balance of your account, but it is to the benefit of both of us that we reach an understanding."

"We realize, of course, that many things may have conspired to make it difficult to take care of this, and we are only too glad to offer our help.

"But in many cases, we find that people put off paying their bills . . . or forget them . . . or find more immediate uses for their money. If they realized just how much their credit means to them, we feel sure that they'd be more eager to keep it!"

"Please remember, though, that we are anxious and willing to help you."

"If circumstances do not permit your prompt payment, please let us know. Like so many other women, you would probably find our new booklet helpful in your use of credit. It is entitled, 'How to Use Credit to Your Best Advantage.' Write for it and we will send it to you without cost."

Rid yourself of worries about bills, and use your credit freely with a happy mind.

KING ENTERS
JUBILEE YEAR

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, May 7.—King George yesterday entered the jubilee year of his reign, celebrating quietly with Queen

Mary the twenty-fourth anniversary of his accession to the throne.

At Windsor Castle, where they are in residence, Their Majesties attended divine service in the castle's private chapel. Thereafter servants of the royal household observed the custom of drinking the health of the King and Queen in champagne, provided by His Majesty.

Because the anniversary fell this year on Sunday, the usual salute of twenty-one guns in the Windsor Long Walk was omitted, but the bells of St. George's Church and the Windsor parish church were rung, and flags were flown from all public buildings.

MUSIC FOR PUBLIC
By the King's command the bands of the Life Guards and the Grenadier Guards gave a two-hour concert on the east terrace of the castle, and the public was admitted to hear the music.

Their Majesties returned to-day to London, traveling by road, with a heavy round of engagements ahead.

The King's health is described as excellent, and officials maintained it was only a matter of precaution in the face of treacherous weather that prevented his attendance Saturday at the final game of the Rugby League. He spent two days earlier in the market.

To-morrow, Their Majesties will make their annual performance in a variety of artists' benevolence.

Praise From Judge As Festival Ends

Victoria Rates High in First Class Music of Western Canada, Says Dr. Percy Hull

Festival week came to a successful close before a crowded Royal Victoria Theatre audience Saturday evening, when competitive honors for the evening were won by Miss Josephine Charlebois in the Rose Bowl event, and by the St. Cecilia Chorists of Vancouver in the class for ladies' choirs. In addition, for its performances during the week, the Tullahoma School choir was awarded the George F. Watson Memorial Cup for the most artistic rendering in all junior choir classes.

Other special trophies given away at the close were the W. C. Nichol Shield for highest marks among adult choirs, to the Metropolitan Church Choir; the Fletcher Bros. Cup for highest marks in instrumental solo class, to the Victoria Youthful Quartet; the Mohr-Paul Cup for highest marks in instrumental duets, trios and quartets, to the Bowtie Lee and Kathleen Soles; and the Women's Canadian Club Cup, to the Nanaimo Stephens.

"You really are doing a great, great work, and I am glad to see a big audience to bring what has been one of the happiest weeks of my life to a close," said Dr. Percy Hull in his last words. He made special mention in his talk of the "loving attention" accorded him and his colleagues by the ladies connected with the festival and added words of congratulation for the secretary and the festival committee, whose motto, he said, must be "efficiency without fuss."

CHORAL MUSIC
In saying au revoir, Dr. Arthur Collingwood also congratulated the committee on its excellent organization and numbered the memories he would take away with him. There were, first of all, the operatic and oratorio classes and the two church choirs; but, above all, the progress of the school choirs was a thing to remember.

"After all," he stated, "these are the things that matter." Through their work chiefly he hoped to see music put on the map throughout the schools of western Canada.

LADIES' CHOIRS
One of the most interesting events on the program was the last one—that for ladies' choirs—which brought four groups, the Schubert Club and the Victoria Ladies' Choir of the home city, and the Vancouver Ladies' Choir and the St. Cecilia Chorists of Vancouver. Under their lady conductor, the last-named choir wrested the honors from the Victoria Ladies' Choir, under Ira Dilworth, and carried the Daily Colonist Challenge Shield with them across the water.

Of the singing of the winners, Dr. Hull said it was "a thrill from the word go." It possessed inner meaning and a very bright, dramatic sense. The Victoria Ladies' Choir showed a fine rhythmic spirit and a great body of broad tone that had vitality—little too much at times. The Schubert Club was very vivid, had delightful balance, but should try for brighter, not louder, tone on the high notes. The Vancouver Ladies' Choir was chiefly notable for its life, he said.

In this "battle of the Titans," as Dr. Hull called it, two pieces by Armstrong Gibbs were sung and the adjudicator said it was too bad Mr. Gibbs was not in the hall. But he was unable to stand trips by water. The marks were: St. Cecilia Chorists, 179; Victoria Ladies' Choir, 174; Vancouver Ladies' Choir, 173; Schubert Club, 169.

END OF SURPRISES
Western Canada was a land of surprises as far as music was concerned, said Dr. Hull. The adjudicators had come not so much to give as to take back.

"I have heard some really first-class music in western Canada, and I do not say this with my tongue in my cheek. What I do say is that I am amazed at the ignorance of some of my stay-at-home colleagues back in the Old Country."

The trouble with western Canada was that it was too far away from the old land; he went on to say. One could not make a week-end excursion out here. Some festivals had very high spots and very low spots, but the Victoria one, while it had had some high spots, had not any low spots. "A fairly good average" had been maintained.

THE ROSE BOWL
In adjudicating the Rose Bowl event, Dr. Collingwood said such a competition was exceedingly revealing. It revealed whether the singers understood themselves, that is, the type of song which suited them. Personally, he liked to see a personal choice in the higher grades. One thing festivals had done had been to "wash out" the old attitude to singing, when the tenor always sang something amorous and the contralto something doubtful.

Of the singing of last year's winner, M. Doris Lythgoe of Nanaimo, Dr. Collingwood said it showed a wonderful amount of feeling and a rich emotional tone, as well as lovely lines. But the pulse of the phrase could be improved. The main need was breath control; the breath should take the singer, not vice versa.

The other finalists chosen from the morning preliminary, Miss Josephine Charlebois, possessing excellent command of a not very opulent voice, was "mistress of herself," had beautiful though virile tone, and sang effortlessly and with a splendid sense of word values. Miss Charlebois was awarded the Rose Bowl, but no marks were given.

MALE CHOIRS
In dealing with the Canadian Pacific Railway (Vancouver) Male Voice Choir, Dr. Collingwood, in felicitous mood, said he hoped male choirs would resist the onslaughts of the soloists, possess their masculine voices, and be about the only groups which had kept the ladies out, and a male choir was a capital excuse for a night out.

He praised the musicianship of this only entry in the adult male choir class for ensembles of twenty-five voices or less, but noted it lacked a certain enthusiasm in its singing and its tone was sometimes rather subdued. "Think more of the meaning of your words, less of your tone," he advised. The group received 85 and 83.

Concerning the performance of the Cathedral String Orchestra under Stanley Bulley, only entry in the senior string ensemble class, Thomas Dunhill, adjudicator, said the group possessed excellent material. He felt it had not been heard to full advantage in a large theatre, though a different arrangement of the players might have resulted in the sound coming out of a bit better into the auditorium.

The playing (of three movements from the Frank Bridge suite for string orchestra) tended to be a little too soft at times, and the second violins were not quite strong enough. He told the story of the American millionnaire who, when a great conductor had commissioned to collect an orchestra had told him twenty-eight violins were needed as well as twenty first violins, had replied: "No, my orchestra, there must be no second violins." On the contrary, the second violins were just as important as the first.

The group was fortunate, however, in having excellent first violins and two cellists, and a really first class soloist who supplied a fine foundation of tone. The best playing had been in the nocturne, the third movement, where a real intimacy had been attained. The orchestra was most promising, but he felt it had not yet attained all it was capable of. It must not be forgotten, he added, that it had a very difficult task.

Dispersed throughout the programme were some of the most delightful features of the evening—folk dancing exhibitions by several of the week's winners. These included students of the Russian Ballet School and North Ward School, the Victoria Girl Guides' Association and the Mary Isdale Dancers of Vancouver.

HONORS GO TO CHAMPION BAND

Kitsilano Players Given Ovation; Other Instrumental Ensembles Heard

The famous Kitsilano Boys' Band made a triumphal appearance at the City Temple Saturday afternoon in connection with the Victoria Musical Festival competitions, winning the junior band class to the accompaniment of enthusiastic applause.

Although the world champions overshadowed the other competitors, the other mainland bands which came over were exceedingly promising.

The wood wind quartette from the Kitsilano band also got unusually high praise and marks, as did a member of the organization, Gordon Delamont, for his playing of the cornet solo, "Inspiration."

Of the winning band, Thomas Dunhill, the adjudicator, said "it was a remarkable performance. The band played with the precision and grip of a first-rate military band."

Other winners of the afternoon included the Yakima Little Symphony Orchestra, the George J. Dyke String ensemble, Nahdin Young, flautist, and "The Victoria" High School Orchestra.

Winners of the afternoon at First United Church were the Oaklands Rhythmic Band, the Victoria Toy Symphony, the F. J. Nurdung Studio Quartette of Tacoma, Elsie McFried in the well-contested open vocal solo for lady or gentleman, Kathleen Craig and John Ware, Sanich.

In the two remaining elocution events at First Baptist Church in the afternoon, the winners were Ronald MacDonald and Lillian Fitzhugh and Mrs. Oldham, Cobble Hill, tied in the ladies' open class.

Another packed auditorium watched the folk dancing at Victoria High School during the afternoon. The winners included St. Margaret's School, Mary Isidore Dancers of Vancouver, the Victoria Girl Guides' Association and the Russian Ballet School.

New on NBC—The Shell Show, KCMO, 8 o'clock. Edward Everett Horton, guest artist; Yehudi Menuhin, pianist; George Stoll's music.

Surrender By Three Signatories on Behalf of Argentina May Be Necessary to Save Pact

Associated Press

London, May 7.—Indications the United States, and possibly Canada and Australia, may be forced to surrender a part of their wheat export quotas to Argentina for the current year so as to save the international wheat agreement is apparent with the approach of another conference of world experts.

The largest wheat conference since the world export pact was signed last August opened here to-day. All twenty-one nations signatory to the agreement were invited to send delegates so that a final showdown must be had on an international minimum price scheme.

A draft of this project was sent to all governments at the conclusion of a recent smaller conference in Rome with the request delegates be sent to this week's conference qualified to make a final decision.

Argentine representatives asked a larger export allotment at the Rome meeting on the grounds that a large crop would interfere with export and acreage limitation plans.

In the August pact the following quotas were set for the so-called "big four" producers: Canada 200,000,000 bushels; Argentina 110,000,000; Australia 100,000,000 and the United States 47,000,000.

American experts declared at Rome that Argentina should complete an acreage reduction plan before her quota was changed, but delegates already here for the coming conference described the Argentine situation as the most urgent on the agenda.

HIGHER PRICES — Quebec, May 7.—Confidence was held by delegates to the International Wheat Conference at Rome that higher prices for wheat would return according to John I. McFarland of Winnipeg.

Mr. McFarland returned to Canada in the liner Empress of Australia Saturday evening and left for Ottawa.

Importing countries seemed just as anxious as exporting nations that prices be advanced, stated Mr. McFarland, who represented Canada at the discussions.

ALBERNI GUILD GARDEN PARTY

Alberni, May 7.—Sponsored by the members of the Ladies' Parochial Guild of All Saints' Anglican Church, a successful tea, sale of home cooking, canning and other novelties was held at the residence of Capt. H. M. T. and Mrs. Hodgson Thursday afternoon.

When the spacious gardens were thrown open for the event, Mrs. Glen Stevenson, president of the guild, assisted the hostess in receiving the guests. Those assisting at the stalls were: Mrs. J. D. Clarke, Mrs. P. Olson, Mrs. J. P. P. and Mrs. Nellie Bourne, Miss Myrtle Beck, Mrs. E. Goodall, Rev. Glen Stevenson and Jack Watson.

After two weeks' holiday at Cumberland, where she was the guest of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Swanson, of the nursing staff of Cumberland Hospital, and also of Mr. and Mrs. W. Woods, Mrs. W. Swanson returned to her home here Tuesday.

Seven tables of bridge followed by an informal dance was held on Tuesday evening at the Athletic Hall, under the auspices of the combined Women's and Men's Athletic Association. Prizes were won by Mrs. H. M. T. Hodgson, Miss M. Stevens, M. Bowes and Walter Richmond. Benny's orchestra provided the music for the dance.

Unable to Send Band to Portland

Unable to afford the expenditure that would be incurred in taking a band to the B.C. Provincial Convention of the Canadian Legion at Portland next month, members of the central committee in charge of convention arrangements here at their meeting Friday evening, were forced to abandon this move. C. A. Gill, secretary of the District Council, announced to-day.

Members wishing to attend the convention are asked to file their names with their branch secretaries before May 12, in order that transportation arrangements may be completed. The round trip price will be $6 if more than one hundred go from Victoria.

Colwood

With a record attendance of 300 patrons, the Wilfrid Lumber Social Club concluded winter activities when they held a successful dance in Colwood Hall, Wednesday evening. A varied programme of entertainment was an added attraction, the artists being Miss Dolly Routledge in song and chorus, Frank White with his piano-accompaniment, Ray Hunt in some clever tap dances, also Miss Zoe "Linstead and Len Westgate in the "Carrioca" and "Tango." Marked applause by the appreciative audience greeted the above numbers. Chocolate soufles awards were made to Messrs. Ken Burton, Eric Guy and Dick Burnett. An excellent programme of dance music was supplied by Reg Wood's five-piece orchestra, with Len Acres at the piano.

The committee in charge of the evening's arrangements included Mrs. H. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. A. Godfrey and F. W. Wilfrid. The monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to St. John's Church will be held at Colwood Hall at 8 p.m. May 9 in Colwood Hall at 8 p.m.

DIVIDENDS COME FROM OLD PICTURE

Hollywood, May 7.—Cecil DeMille certainly should be convinced that it pays to make good pictures. The other day he received a royalty check for several thousand dollars from "King of Kings," made away back in the silent era. It is still being shown.

"Ann Vickers"

At Playhouse

"Ann Vickers" from the great Sinclair Lewis story that was published simultaneously in thirteen countries and eleven languages, is being shown at the Playhouse Theatre.

With John Cromwell as director, "Ann Vickers" becomes a living exponent of the modern woman. The screen, of course, quickens the pace of the story of a woman's career and love, while the backgrounds become more sharply defined, new color is added, the drama, modern in its theme, is more vivid, and Ann, resplendent in fashion's best, moves majestically through high places in society, as the great leader in prison reform.

The scene, beautiful and bristling, is the wise selection for Ann, who, while frustrated in love, earns the acclaim of the reform world.

"Havana Widows"

At the Columbia

"Havana Widows," the riotous First National comedy feature, is now at the Columbia. It shows Frank McHugh as the famous breach-of-promise suit lawyer, taking the count because of mistaken identity. They thought he was some intruder and knocked him out cold by breaking a vase over his head. Of course the girls are frantic, but in all their bewilderment, Glenda Farrell has time to get in a wisecrack as only Glenda can.

Being shown as a second feature on the same programme is "Casey Jones," a railroad story.

DOMINION THEATRE

Boris Karloff, who reached the heights of screen fame with his performance in "Frankenstein" and "The Mummy," was born in Dulwich, England and educated at King's College of London University for a career in the British Consular service. Instead of following the plans of his family, Karloff went to Canada and eventually gravitated into acting on the stage and in pictures after making a living at all sorts of odd-jobs. His climb to screen recognition was slow but consistent, and his current role in "Casey Jones" is a character star of the very first rank.

Montreal, May 7 (Canadian Press).—John Irwin, president of McColl-Prontenac Oil Company Limited yesterday told the annual general meeting of shareholders that reports already received from the company's marketing divisions indicated an increase in demand for gasoline and lubricating oils during the current year.

Mr. Irwin also made official announcement of the directors' decision in increasing the annual dividend rate from 60c to 80c by the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 20c, payable June 15 to the record of May 15. Directors were re-elected and reports approved.

Climaxing a successful year's activity, the debaters' group of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce held a successful dinner party at Speedie's Cafe Friday. All members of the group attended with their wives and the evening was spent in dancing, singing and games.

E. J. Browning, convener of the group for the year, occupied the chair.

A review of the group's activities from its birth under H. Sandison, Graves and J. R. Jones as the effective speaking group to the present day was given by the chairman, H. Sandison. He spoke of the work performed by Mr. Hunter and John Baxter, former leaders of the group.

Various toasts were proposed during the evening by the different members of the organization. The evening was rounded out by musical numbers and dancing, with Mrs. L. G. Browning and Leslie Osborn at the piano.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bayliss, Mr. and Mrs. George Beck, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. T. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Browning, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tyrrell, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. George, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Leslie F. Osborn, D. E. Brake and O. Conway Parrott.

Several members of the Victoria Short Wave Club took advantage of the excursion to Port Moresby on an informal visit to pay a return visit to the club. On the party were W. A. Fuller, president, Scholes, secretary-treasurer, W. P. Wilson, J. Hepburn Jr. and E. H. Cooper of the executive; G. H. Smith, J. Watson, J. R. Archer, and Miss M. Fuller. A visit to L. Lamberson's station, W7EKC, resulted in a contact being established with a Victoria station, WESIM, operated by L. E. Culbertson. After an exchange of remarks, the party visited H. Littlefield's station, W7DGY, after which all were entertained to supper by Mrs. Littlefield and Mrs. Lamberson.

Answer—Libel is Latin, meaning a "little book." Pamphlets that contained defamatory statements were usually small. Hence the relation between little books and scandal.

Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, was in Vancouver to-day to meet cattlemen from the B.C. range districts and discuss with them the application of the new marketing act to their conditions.

The stockmen intimated some time ago that when the new act is completed at Ottawa they would be prepared to go under it with a board to control their industry. The discussion to-day is understood to be of an informal nature, merely to give the possibilities and the necessary organization.

RESIDED HERE SEVENTY YEARS

J. C. Newbury, Pioneer Teacher and Customs Collector, Passes Away

Another pioneer passed to his long rest on Saturday in the death of St. Joseph's Hospital, John Cooper Newbury, 2835 Colquhoun Avenue, following a brief illness, at the age of seventy-five. Born in Staffordshire, England, Mr. Newbury came to this city seventy-one years ago with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William Newbury. He had resided here ever since.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon, the cortege leaving the Sands Mortuary Chapel at 3:15 o'clock and proceeding to the Church of Our Lord, where services will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock by Rev. A. deB. Owen. Interment will be in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

Mr. Newbury received his education at the old Collegiate and Central schools and had the distinction of being the first winner of the Governor-General's medal in the province, when he graduated from the old Victoria High School at the age of fourteen with 1,275 marks out of a possible 1,300.

He took up teaching at an early age, before he was seventeen became principal of the old historic Craigflower School. After four years he gave up teaching and joined the Canadian Customs service, serving with them for forty-one years. From 1904 until his retirement in 1922 he was collector of customs here.

Mr. Newbury held the long service medal for service with the local militia and was a crack shot, being on three occasions selected by the members of the B.C. Rifle Association to go to Ottawa, where he won three cups.

He was one of the first members of a very active worker of the Y.M.C.A. He was a great lover of flowers and was particularly fond of dahlias, one species being named after him.

Besides his widow, who lives at the family residence, he is survived by one son, Cowper William; one daughter, Mrs. H. J. Adamson; three sisters, Mrs. H. J. Martin, Victoria; Mrs. J. M. McNeil, Seattle; and Mrs. H. J. Newbury, Victoria; one niece, Mrs. Frank Bhandley, Victoria; and five nephews, F. S. Martin, Victoria; Keith and Cowper Middleton, Seattle; and Hugh and Howard Middleton, California.

He was a great lover of flowers and was particularly fond of dahlias, one species being named after him.

COOK TO STAR IN "Y" CIRCUS

Prop Makers For Bingling Brothers Are Producing Many Strange Beasts

The cook, an animal never before known to civilization, is walking the floor of the Y.M.C.A. gym, not from the depths of the Amazon, but from the fertile brains of the prop makers of the Bingling Brothers Circus. This strange beast brought into the light of day the cook has a hide of painted splendor, a skeleton of lath and wicker, and a neck, superbly reptilian, which works on the larynx system. His four legs do not always synchronize exactly.

The cook is doomed to a tragic end. His superb brain, which is ordered to serve the ribaldry of the clown, will be the willows show building next Saturday night. He will perish on the stage of the arena to make a Roman holiday.

This tragic beast is only one of many members of the circus menagerie. There is also a giraffe with an eight-foot neck, a strange black animal with four youthful legs known as the wampus cat, an ostrich and a variety of other greater and lesser beasts and birds.

The prop makers have been working hard. They have produced a lath and cardboard ambulance, a wagon built on the same principle as a lath and cardboard, and the gem of their collection, a real automobile, which runs and talks and does quite a lot of things which no self-respecting automobile should do, and ends by collapsing in the middle of the ring. In their spare moments the busy workers are applying big daubs of red and green paint to huddles, trestles and tables.

CLOWNS
The circus, twenty in number, and including Ralph Aleck, Frank Rul, Harold MacLean, Bill Mair, Carl Coates, Roy Berryman, "Spider" Meson, Frank Watson and Bob Hughes, are hard at work learning to manage outside clowns and shoes. They will appear at intervals throughout the show, which will present several spectacular numbers not ordinarily found in the standard ring.

The flag drill team will meet for practice to-day and on Thursday at 4:15 p.m. and its senior employees will meet to the junior leader corps and Tuesday and Friday, at 4:15 p.m. to the Roman ladder team. The committee in charge of refreshments will meet this evening at 8 o'clock.

AWAIT RETURN OF DELEGATION

Uncertainty Here Over Premier Pattullo's Next Move

The capital of this province was uncertain to-day what would be the next move in the Federal-Provincial duel over finances which developed last week.

Ministers and secretaries did not know, or were uncommunicative, this morning as to when the B.C. delegation to Ottawa will return, and undoubtedly did not know what the government would do next.

It was apparent, however, that Premier Pattullo had expected to have all his business cleared up with Ottawa by this time and be on his way west. Through the delay several engagements he had made in advance for the next week have been postponed or cancelled.

Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, and Attorney-General Sloan, have gone to New York, according to word received here. The purpose of this visit is understood to be negotiations for a loan. Probably the market will be soured out for an issue large enough to cover the $18,000,000 in unfunded debts which was piled up when the government took office. The bond market reacted in a very favorable way after the B.C. request was turned down. B.C. issues were reported up a full point on Saturday.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

IT is a bit early to bring the crying towels out of seclusion, but if six or seven young men who earn their salt on the baseball diamond continue to pour the pellets as they have in early season there are several managers scheduled to go into mourning. One of these major league pilots is Jimmy Wilson. The cheery backstop and manager of the Philadelphia Nationals will no doubt exercise his lachrymal glands profusely before the present season ends. His tear-shedding will result from the fact that last November 21 the Phils' management parted with one, Chuck Klein, the only ball player on the club, for a parcel from the Chicago Cubs consisting of Koenig, Kleinbans, Hendrick and a sum reported to be between $75,000 and $125,000.

The sale of Klein to the Cubs not only wrecked Jimmy Wilson's ball club and sent the fans away from the Phils' park in droves, but it also gave the Cubs a pennant-winning player. Another pilot crying already is Walter Johnson, boss of the Cleveland Indians. His attack of the blues is being caused by the antics of one Henry "Zeke" Bonura, the gent who's making Al Simmons take a back seat in the swatting division of the Chicago White Sox.

A couple of years ago the Indians had Bonura all sewed up, but they dallied around with him, farming him out to New Orleans, Toledo and Dallas, and finally cast him loose. Zeke has become the slugger of the Sox. His big bat has boomed forth with enough homers to put him among the leaders of the American League—and it's his first year in big time.

A trio of other major league managers are sniffing in their handkerchiefs. They are Joe Cronin of the Washington Senators, Charley Grimm of the Cubs, and Bill Terry of the New York Giants. Joe's grief is caused by the fact that the front office traded Goose Goslin to the Detroit Tigers for Johnny Stone last winter. It appears that the swap was made simply because the prominent-vigilant gent didn't deliver so handsomely in the world series of 1933. His 250 average didn't please Clark Griffith at all.

The powers that be, thinking the Goose, at thirty-three, was washed up, promptly got rid of him for a younger fellow.

Judging by his power with the willow with the Tigers so far this year, Goslin is still a much better ball player. This may be his last big year in baseball—but if Mickey Cochrane can get one good year out of him, he'll make the Senators rue the day they parted with the New Jersey gentleman farmer.

Charley Grimm, while elated over the fact that he has drawn money from the Phils, is somewhat more over a deal engineered in 1932 that sent Hack Wilson to the Brooklyn Dodgers. Last year Grimm was all smiles. But with the Dodgers' record of his stride and bombarding parks outside the fences of ball parks with home runs, the banjo-playing Dutchman strums an occasional indigo tune.

Terry is another who is and—although the shedding of salty fluid is not brought on by his own mistake. The mistake was one of the few made by the late John McGraw when he was active driver of the Giants' ship of fate. Little Napoleon picked up a youngster named Len Koenecke from Indianapolis. John paid $75,000 for Len—and thought he had a $75,000 lemon.

There was story circulated at the time that Terry and Koenecke had worked up a feud. Koenecke soon found himself going down the river to Jersey City and finally to Buffalo in the transaction that brought Blondy Ryan to the Yankees.

When Len was made part of the deal that sent Sam Leslie to the Dodgers for Lefty O'Doul and Lefty Clark, another story was told that Bill was sending Koenecke to Brooklyn for revenge.

Regardless of the reported feeling between Terry and Koenecke, the sports have an idea that Memphis Bill is just a bit sorry that Koenecke isn't doing his swell hitting with the Dodgers for the Giants.

The entire structure of horse racing in United States was saved the other day when New York lifted bookmakers out of the bootleg class for the first time in twenty-four years.

A new golden era for the sport of kings was launched with the opening of the metropolitan season at the old ramshackle Jamaica layout.

Monica Trump Wins Vancouver Breast Stroke Race in Record Time

Creating what is believed to be a new provincial and Pacific Northwest record, Monica Trump, young breast stroke ace of Collin McFadden's Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, on Saturday swept all opposition aside to win the 100-metre breast stroke from a fast field of international competitors in Vancouver.

The young Victoria swimmer, who is a member of the British Columbia championship team, covered the distance in 1:57.1 in the final, having won her heat in 1:57 flat.

While no metric records could be located, the Pacific Northwest mark in 1932 in the final, having won her heat in 1:57 flat.

Pairs With Jules Audy to Take First Place in Toronto Six-day Bicycle Race; Second Time Victorian Has Won Five Consecutive Events

Toronto, May 7.—The twenty-fourth victory since he first started six-day bicycle racing back in October, 1929, to-day was marked beside the name of William "Torchy" Peden, Victoria, B.C.

Teamed with blond-haired Jules Audy, Montreal, the giant Victoria rider won Toronto's six-day bicycle race, which ended here late Saturday night. The Canadian pair finished the grind with 2,331 miles and three laps and a point total of 1,328.

One lap behind came Charlie Winter, New York, and Frank Bartell, Newark, N.J., the United States team. Entering the last hour of the race leading in sprint points, the American team needed a lap to tie Peden and Audy in mileage and take victory.

It was the second victory in a row for the Peden-Audy association, the pair having won the six-day race at Montreal two weeks ago. It was also Peden's fifth straight win. It was the second time the Victoria boy had won five races in a row.

The veteran Reggie McNamara of Australia, and Lou Bush, Victoria, finished in fifth place, six laps behind the leader.

NANAIMO WINS CUP FOOTBALL

Defeat St. Saviours 6 to 1 in Province Cup Series; Will Meet Victoria

Nanaimo, May 7.—Nanaimo City started its march towards Province Cup honors here yesterday by handing a weary St. Saviours eleven, a 6 to 1 defeat, before 1,400 fans in a first round fixture. Nanaimo will play Victoria United at the Capital City in the next round. The match may be played Saturday.

The Tigers opened strongly and displayed a nice attack in the first fifteen minutes and the City defenders had no easy task in stopping Easley and Moffatt. Then Hargreaves was injured and Easley took his place at fullback. The visitors carried no reserves and the injured player took over the left wing post.

Waugh scored for Nanaimo at the twenty-six-minute mark and Sandiland duplicated his feat three minutes later. The second half was about fifteen minutes old when McGregor fouled Arnett in the penalty area. Moffatt's spot kick hit the inside of the post and rebounded into the clear.

English carried Alsbury and the ball into the net to make it 3 to 0 for the home eleven and Jimmy Knight scored from long range to increase the advantage. Tigers broke into the scoring column two minutes later through G. Bradbury, but Waugh begged his second of the game just two minutes after that, to retain the city four-point lead.

Cleveland Takes Second Straight

Indians Hold Second Place in American Baseball League By Beating Philadelphia 4 to 3; Three National League Leaders Win

Despite the double handicap of having their star hurler, Wes Ferrell, stand firm in his determination not to play for the salary offered him and of a slight shortage in left-handed elbowers, Cleveland Indians appear to be doing right well by themselves in the American League baseball campaign.

Since intersection play began, only the Indians among the league's western clubs have succeeded in winning a game from the east's representatives and they made it two out of three yesterday by defeating the Philadelphia Athletics 4 to 3. This triumph kept Walter Johnson's crew in second place.

Willis Hudlin recorded his second victory, taking the A's in all but two innings.

The New York Yankees maintained their lead by turning back St. Louis Browns in a hurling argument, late rallies led by Lou Gehrig, who hit a homerun, double and single at important stages.

Boston's Red Sox, pressing hard from third place, gave Detroit a painful shelling, scoring twelve runs in one tremendous inning. The final count was 14 to 4. Al Thomas, Washington, recorded the only major league shutout by stopping the Chicago White Sox with six hits to win 5 to 0.

THREE LEADERS WIN
While the first three teams in the National League stand at St. Louis, Chicago and Pittsburgh, turned in victories over lesser opponents, Boston Braves took a more active part in their fourth-place duel with St. Louis to capture the first division berth.

The Braves won 3 to 2 as Fred Fritzsche got the better of Bill Hallahan in a hurling argument, St. Louis couldn't score until Ed Brandt took the hill in the ninth.

The league-leading Giants hopped on St. Johnson for two runs in the first inning to take the first game in Cincinnati 5 to 3. The Chicago Cubs jumped on Snipe Hansen for eight runs in three innings to assure on 11 to 5 victory over the Phillies. The Pittsburgh Pirates likewise piled up an early lead and coasted through to an 8 to 5 decision over Brooklyn.

DOCKERS WIN CUP FIXTURE

Defeat Victoria City 4 to 1 in McGavin Cup Football; Thistles Victors

Doing all of their scoring in the second half, Esquimalt defeated Victoria City 4 to 1 in a McGavin Cup soccer fixture Saturday afternoon at the Athletic Park. In the opening attraction of a twin bill, Victoria City netted their lone marker just prior to leaving the field for the half-time interval.

Running in two goals in the initial stanza and three more in the second half, Saanich Thistles meted out a 5 to 0 whitewash to the Victoria City eleven in a Feder Cup match, a second division fixture.

Esquimalt was the better team and had a noticeable margin in the territorial play in each half. In the first session the Dockers' front line tried to literally walk the ball into the City net, instead of firing shots at Chalmers, and as a consequence failed to net any markers in this half in which they dominated the play.

Changing their tactics in the second half, Esquimalt's front line fired more frequently at Chalmers. City net custodian, with the result that they netted four goals, but they have scored more had it not been for the many fine saves made by Chalmers.

WEAK FRONT LINE

Presenting a front line that failed to click collectively, Victoria City never looked like winning the game. Their intermediate rank of McBey, Sage and Smith played hard and useful football, but the many fine moves made by this trio were wasted by a weak forward line.

City opened with a rush, but play was soon returned to the other end of the field, where Esquimalt forced two corners in quick succession. Keeping up the pressure the Dockers were awarded a penalty for hands on Harold Sage, hard-working centre half of the City, but Scotty Stewart's spot kick missed the upright by inches.

Mike Wagland, who had been playing a stinging drive minutes later, but the goalie pulled off a sensational save and robbed Esquimalt of what looked like a sure marker.

CITY SCORES

Victoria City made occasional breakthroughs in this half and on one of these they netted the first marker of the initial half and their only score of the match.

Breaking after a heavy attack on their citadel, Victoria City moved up fast and J. Murray swung the leather out to brother Al on the right wing. The latter player showed his heels to the field and the ball, which DeCosta rushed out to clear, but Carr tipped over his head and the diminutive Holness moved in to open net and banged the leather into the fast net.

Almost immediately following this play J. Murray was helped from the field with an injured knee.

With the sounding of the half-time whistle minutes later City were leading a 1 to 0 game.

Al McKinnon replaced Murray on the losers' line-up as play resumed in the second half. Esquimalt opened on the attack and Wagland skied a hot drive over the bar. Seconds later Harold Sage rifled a shot at DeCosta from outside the penalty area and the Esquimalt goalie saved it in great fashion. It was one of the most dangerous shots of the match.

STEVART EQUALS

Working his way in close after a throw in in City territory, Scotty Stewart equalized when he beat Chalmers with a low shot at close range. Ten minutes later Esquimalt gained a lead which they never relinquished when Wagland scored on the far corner of the goal.

With Esquimalt keeping up the pressure, John Watt made it 3 to 1 for the Dockers when he tricked Smith and banged the leather past Chalmers. Watt added his second goal and the last of the match when he headed the ball into an open net on a cross from Warder.

The teams followed: Esquimalt—DeCosta, J. Watt, Hay, Pepin, Boyd, Barnswell, Sweeney, Stewart, J. Watt, Wagland and Warder.

Victoria City—Chalmers, I. Murray, Carmichael, Smith, Sage, McBey, Murray, J. Murray, Carr, Gibson, Holness, McKinnon and McLellan.

No effort has been spared by this year's Davis Cup committee to provide every trial contestant with equal opportunity to make the 1934 Canadian team, every player taking part in the trial matches being required to meet every other contestant, taking part in the draw made in the presence of John Murphy, president of the Ottawa District Lawn Tennis Association, and Edwin H. Charlson, councillor of the C.L.T.A.

The trials will be conducted under the direction of Garnet H. Meldrum, Toronto, chairman of the council of the C.L.T.A., and member of the Davis Cup committee. Thomas Arnold, Montreal, president of the province of Quebec Tennis Association, and member of the Davis Cup committee, will also be on hand for the trials, while Walter Martin, Toronto, the Dominion's outstanding player, will represent Lyons, who will not be present.

TO NAME CAPTAIN

Immediately after the trials a playing captain will be appointed to look after the team, which will leave Toronto for the United States about May 16.

The province of British Columbia will be represented at the trials by T. O. Ryall, western Canada's ranking player, while the province of Quebec will pin its faith on Marcel Rainville, member of last year's team, and the Dominion's outstanding player, will represent Lyons, who will not be present.

The first day's matches as drawn by Lyons, calls for Gilbert Murray (Ontario) to meet Bob Murray (Quebec); Marcel Rainville (Quebec) to meet T. O. Ryall (British Columbia); and T. O. Ryall (British Columbia) to meet the Ontario representative to be selected. Lieutenant-Commander J. C. I. Edwards, R.C.N., and George Leclerc were selected to represent the association, to whom had been delegated the selection of the Ontario representative.

An emergency meeting of the executive committee then decided that Leclerc should be invited to go to Toronto to represent the association, along with Edwards, as he has been playing indoor tennis all winter at Montreal.

Groom Cavalcade For Championship

Saturday's Kentucky Derby Winner Figured to Have Good Chance to Head Three-year-olds For Year; Will Not Run in Preakness Saturday

Louisville, May 7.—Kentucky Derby winners seldom become champion race horses, but if a Derby winner ever had a fine chance to win the three-year-old crown it is Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Cavalcade, which captured the sixtieth running of the historic race in such magnificent fashion as to beggar description.

Trained to perfection by R. A. "Smiling Bob" Smith and expertly ridden by the veteran jockey, Mack Garner, who was aboard his first Derby winner after ten losing attempts to win the Sloane colt could have defeated the best band of thoroughbreds to go to the Derby post in years, and was not forced to extend himself.

NOT IN PREAKNESS

Cavalcade is Trainer Smith's first Derby winner and "Smiling Bob" Smith, a potential champion in his charge, is profiting by the mistakes of others in deciding not to start the English-bred colt in the Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

Derby winner in 1932, won the Preakness the following week and promptly broke down. Broke's Tip, last year's victor, started in the Preakness, lost and broke down. So there will be no overreaction for Cavalcade. His next start will be in the American Derby at Chicago.

Take it from Jockey Garner, who rode Cavalcade in his three-year-old starts this year, the Sloane colt could have raced the mile and a quarter distance in faster time than the 2:04 recorded, but it was not necessary.

COMPARE TIMES

The track was fast, but softer than on the day Twenty Grand set the record of 2:01 1/2.

Here is a comparison of the fractional times of their Derbys:

Twenty Grand—1/4, 23 1/2-1/2, 47 1/2-3/4, 1:12 1/2, 1:37 2/5 and 1:56 1/2.

Cavalcade—1/4, 23 1/2-1/2, 47 1/2-3/4, 1:12 1/2, 1:37 2/5 and 1:56 1/2.

Mrs. Sloane who purchased Cavalcade for only $1,200 as a yearling, broke the firm record for the Preakness, won the Kentucky Derby, which ran coupled with Cavalcade Saturday, won the Florida Derby.

Time Clock, off to a bad start Saturday, picked up more ground than any other horse in the race, moving from last place, thirteenth, to seventh, during the running. Mrs. Sloane has reserved another crack colt, High Quest, for the Preakness and with these three sterling horses, her Brookmeade stable may win the lion's share of three-year-old stakes this year.

Perhaps the most disappointed owner was twenty-one-year-old Alfred G. Vanderbilt, whose Discovery finished second Saturday. A newcomer to racing, young Vanderbilt, bought the horse for $20,000 and thought the horse was a certain winner.

TOUGH FOR FILLIES

Mrs. Frank J. Heller's Agrarian was third, with Charles T. Fisher's well-backed filly, Mata Hari, fourth.

Mrs. Sloane netted $28,175 by Cavalcade's victory. Vanderbilt received $20,000 for his second place and Fisher $10,000. The Brookmeade entry was heavy favorite in the betting, at odds of 3 to 2.

Col. E. R. Bradley's Benzar, the other filly in the field, showed alacrity, adding strength to turf expert's conviction that fillies should be disregarded in Derby calculations. Eastern-owned horses ran one-two-three, but Earl giving the best performance among western horses.

W.C. Mearns Wins Par Competition

Finishing 3 up, W. C. Mearns won the men's par competition at the Uplands Golf Club yesterday. E. Mallek finished second with a score of 1 up.

Scores follow: W. C. Mearns, 3 up. E. Mallek, 1 up. D. J. Challoner, all square. R. A. Angus, all square. R. A. Semple, all square. H. C. English, 1 down. W. H. W. Moorhouse, 1 down. J. R. Hiberson, 1 down. H. C. Hanson, 1 down. H. J. Rydholm, 3 down. E. H. A. Norton, 4 down. Chas. W. Thomas, 4 down. J. V. Barnes, 4 down.

NEW BARTO WAR IS URGED

Calgary, May 7.—Urging church people of all lands to make clear to their respective governments that "they will refuse to countenance or engage in any war with respect to which their government has not submitted the dispute to a world court," a resolution favoring co-operation with the League of Nations was passed at a mass meeting here yesterday. Copies will be sent to Prime Minister Bennett and all church heads in Canada.

Into the morass, according to government statistics if they are any better, the Canadian government of Canada are on relief. Again it is common knowledge, the penitentiaries are congested with the youth of the land, also the insane asylums are crowded, brought about through the mental tortures they were compelled to endure, because of their economic condition. In conclusion, sir, not until purchasing power is made available to those on relief through the Dominion, will business and industrial life of the nation improve. Surely it would be interesting for one to know what is the function of production if it is not consumption?

Wheat Prices Soar As Drought Widens

Associated Press
Chicago, May 7.—Widening of drought, with 100 degree temperatures, led to skyrocketing of grain prices today, wheat going aloft almost four cents and corn two cents. Despite weakness of securities, most of the gain in wheat and other cereals was held. Wheat reached the top-most point to-day since April 16 and corn since April 12.

Depression Taught Men and Women Some Very Valuable Lessons, and It Has Brought Thousands Of Estranged Couples, That Were on the Verge Of Divorce, Together Again, Says Dorothy Dix

ACCORDING to recently published statistics, the divorce ratio steadily decreased every year during the depression, but now with even the prospect of prosperity around the corner it has skyrocketed upward. The number of people during the last few months asking to have their matrimonial bonds severed being double what it was for the entire previous year.

From this it would appear that divorce is rated in the luxury class, and that the general public had put off indulging itself in one, as it had in a new automobile, until times were better. Breaking up a home is as expensive an undertaking as founding one, and so many a domicile has remained intact because a disgruntled husband and wife lacked the price to pay the wrecking crew.

Furthermore, it was one thing for a wife who has got bored with domesticity and tired of a husband who did not come up to all of her romantic girlish dreams to decide she could no longer be bound to a clog to up and leave him when she could go back home to mamma and papa to be supported and collect juicy alimony on the side.

But it was a different proposition and one that gave her to think, as the French say, and made her decide that she had better stick to her meat tickets, when she realized that if she walked out on husband she had nowhere to go. That mother and father were on half rations themselves, and that collecting alimony from a man whose salary had been cut to the bone was like trying to squeeze blood out of a turnip.

That is a cynical view of the matter. A tender and a more human one is that people are drawn closer together by adversity than they are by prosperity. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, the friends we grapple to our souls with hoops of steel, are not the gay companions with whom we have quaffed cocktails and laughed and danced and made merry. They are those who have drained with us the cup of tears, who have shared our suffering and our sorrow, and stood by us in our dark hour.

There can be no disputing the fact that the whole tendency of wealth is to alienate husbands and wives. It comes between them in a thousand subtle and insidious ways. It keeps them from being dependent upon each other for comfort and happiness and companionship. It prevents them from giving the little personal service that makes them necessary to each other.

Their secretaries and maids are their confidantes. Servants minister to their needs. Trained nurses care for them when they are sick. Business and society absorb their time and call them in different directions, so that often they become almost strangers to each other.

In addition, they are beset by temptations that the poor never know. Every right man is the foredoomed prey of adventuresses who flatter and cajole him and try to take him away from his wife. Every rich woman has her followings of parasitic young men who borrow her money and feed her hungry heart on the love talk with which her husband has long ceased to regale her.

Without question the depression has brought thousands of these estranged couples, who were on the verge of divorce, back to each other.

Many a man who was rich one day was poor the next. When he moved from Easy Street to Poverty Flat the pretty, painted flappers who have been telling him he was too young for his wife had no more use for him, but his cry of trouble was a trumpet call that brought his wife to his side to fight with him against the world. She braced up his morale when it threatened to break down. She breathed fresh hope and courage into him. She rolled up her sleeves and went back into the kitchen just as she had done as a bride when they started out to make their fortune together.

Just how many husbands and wives have found each other again during the hard times, just how much love has been rekindled, we can never know, but it is enough to have made a big dent in the divorce records.

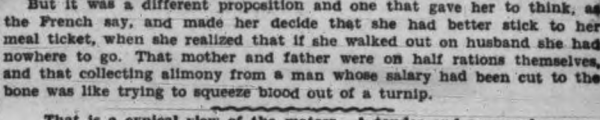

And still another reason why there have been fewer divorces during the depression is because people have been too busy to think about their hearts. They have had to concentrate on getting something to go into their stomachs. They haven't had time to sit up with their fingers on their pulses and wonder why at forty they didn't have as many thrills as they did at twenty.

It is the rich, idle women who fill the divorce courts. The women who have nothing to do but vivisect themselves and discover that they have ceased to palpitate at their husbands' footsteps, or that they are all souls while their husbands are all business. It takes leisure for a woman to deduce that her husband has ceased to love her because he doesn't understand her finer nature and is guilty of mental cruelty when he complains about the coffee.

The woman who has to make $2 do the work of $5, who has to cook and wash and baby-tend, doesn't worry over the state of her own or her husband's affections. She knows that they love each other as long as they are willing to work together and make sacrifices for each other, and the last thing on earth she wants is a decree absolute.

Depression taught men and women some very valuable lessons. What a pity that they are forgetting them already.

Uncle Wiggily's Waterfall

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily was hopping slowly across the fields toward the woods. When he reached the woods he thought he would also hop slowly beneath the trees.

"It was a lovely day in May. The sun was shining brightly, the grass seemed to be growing more green each minute and enough bread was being made to feed the world. The reason the rabbit gentleman was hopping so slowly was that he was in no hurry. He could have hopped much faster if he had wished.

"But," he said to himself, "what is the use of hurrying to look for an adventure? It is so soon over and then I have nothing to think about. I had much better hop slowly and think slowly of the sort of adventure I would like to have. It is very pleasant to think of jolly things to come. Sometimes when they come they aren't as jolly as you thought they were going to be. So I'll hop slowly and have the pleasure of thinking about a jolly adventure."

"I'll also have a good time when I get the adventure," said the bunny uncle. "Up this time he had reached the woods and was glad for their cool shade. He hopped a little and then he saw a tree, stopping now and then to smell the tree, looking at a blue one. It was lovely in the woods and the water was lovely. Uncle Wiggily reached a little brook. The water was so clear and sparkling and he was so slowly and quietly, hardly making a sound and only a very few bubbles.

"I think I'll sit down by the brook and have a little peace and quiet," said Mr. Longears. It was easy to do for there was the brook right in front of him and there was peace and quiet all around him. There was no sound of peace and quiet enough for everybody.

But after a while the peace and quiet became rather tiresome. Uncle Wiggily found himself wishing that the brook would chatter a bit or bubble or gurgle or splash or whatever brooks do to make a noise. "I know what I will do," exclaimed the rabbit gentleman all of a sudden. "I wish there was a waterfall in this brook. Then the water would run over and splash down the fall and it would make a noise and there would be fun and bubbles and the wind would blow some spray on my pink nose to make it tinkle faster. Yes, I wish I had a waterfall!"

No sooner had Uncle Wiggily spoken these words, which he did completely, than a voice answered him, saying:

"It is very easy to have a waterfall if you wish it."

"Is that so?" asked Uncle Wiggily, al-

ARE ASHORE ON ATLANTIC COAST

Halifax, May 7.—Two vessels—a 1,500-ton freighter and a little coastwise craft—lay hard and fast against Nova Scotia's rugged shore.

Off Cape Egmont, on the northeast coast of Cape Breton Island, the Norwegian freighter Rutenfjell was pounding on a rocky ledge.

Meanwhile, the motor vessel, Walter Junior, was ashore at Point Felix, where she struck a reef while proceeding down the province's south shore from Yarmouth. Capt. Robertson and his seven men escaped to shore as their little vessel grounded, and to-day the skipper was making arrangements to have the vessel salvaged.

FIVE IN CAPTIVITY

There are only five of these lizards in captivity. One was presented a few weeks ago to the Sourabaya Zoo in the Dutch East Indies by Mr. Griswold and Mr. Harkness. One captured by the then Duke of Brabant, now King of the Belgians, in 1931, died on the voyage home to Europe. Mr. Griswold this morning described the dragons as carnivorous, and with long forked tongues and hides, different in type from the lizard or scorpion variety. The skin is lumpy with protuberances raising up over the head and neck. These protuberances are dome-shaped.

They have long, curved teeth and live in caves in the mountains. Their normal full growth length is sixteen feet.

The dragons, when fighting, raise up on their hind legs. They feed on meat, principally deer and pigs, tearing the throats of their victims and dragging them into their caves. They also run on their hind legs. They are not poisonous.

Komodo Island is the only place these particular dragons are found. They were first recorded in 1918 and classified in 1924. They number not more than 200 or 300. Messrs. Griswold and Harkness trapped forty-three of all sizes, but released the smaller ones, being allowed to take away only four. A few years ago a Dutch hunter went to the island and shot scores of them before the Dutch authorities ordered a halt. Since that time permission must be obtained to trap them.

No more permits will be issued for five years, Mr. Griswold said this morning. He and Mr. Harkness were only given authority to capture four and then only on condition that they present four others to the Sourabaya Zoo for breeding and experimental purposes.

ILL ON VOYAGE
One, which took sick on the passage, was almost inert and the two young men decided to administer a dose of castor oil. It took six husky sailors to hold it down while the medicine was poured down its throat by means of a funnel and tube. It recuperated rapidly.

The scientists were two months basking eight of the dragons. They used the same methods as tiger hunters, utilizing a box trap with meat on a hook and a trap door which closes at the entrance. Natives adopt another method which frequently causes strangulation, using a baited hook on a tree limb which is released and jerks the dragon up in the air.

Komodo Island is twelve by twenty-two miles in area, of volcanic origin, very mountainous and with very little vegetation. The hunters were told by the Dutch authorities there was no water on the island, but the Americans discovered one river with seven waterfalls. It is inhabited by thirty men, women and children, all Mohammedans, either criminals or their descendants.

These people worship the "Goddess of the World," and when Messrs. Griswold and Harkness killed a crocodile there were loud lamentations, the natives saying an era of bad luck was at hand. "To appease the gods and goddesses, they sent out a small group loaded with bananas and coconuts. They are not supposed to eat pork, but call their pigs "short-legged deer" and in this way ease their conscience.

RETURN FROM WORLD TOUR

Several world tourists, including Col. and Mrs. Reginald S. Chaplin and Lady Jessie Musgrave of London, reached Victoria this morning from the Orient aboard the Ss. Empress of Asia.

Col. and Mrs. Chaplin traveled leisurely around the world, after visiting last summer in England. In London they were joined by Mrs. Chaplin's sister, Lady Musgrave, who formerly lived in Victoria, where her marriage to Sir Richard Musgrave took place at the old Dunsmuir Castle at Craigdarroch.

Lady Musgrave proceeded to Vancouver with the Empress of Asia this morning but will return to Victoria shortly to visit friends and relatives. She has not been here for many years and was greeted by a number of old friends aboard ship this morning.

Other world tourists aboard the Asia were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Collier of London, who will cross Canada and sail from Quebec by the Ss. Empress of Australia for their home in England. Mr. Collier is connected with the Dunlop Rubber Company and inspected the offices of his firm in the Far East while on his trip.
